Tiny Hamlet Object Of Bloody Fighting

SAIGON (AP) — American infantrymen supported by tanks, artillery and planes battled the Viet Cong today for control of a tiny hamlet northwest of Saigon in the fourth straight day of heavy fighting in the area.

Men of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division called in artillery and napalm air strikes only 50 to 100 yards ahead of them as they advanced into the hamlet of Ap Long Muc about 30 miles northwest of Saigon near the district town of Trang Bang.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces have reported killing 396 enemy in the Trang Bang area since Sunday. Allied casualties were described as light.

Al Chang, an Associated Press photographer who was wounded slightly by shrapnel as U.S. tanks and armored personnel carriers moved up on Ap Long Muc, said the Viet Cong were well entrenched in the hamlet and greeted the advancing infantrymen with heavy machine-gun fire and a barrage of rocket-propelled grenades.

With the battle still raging, at least eight enemy dead were reported.

Meanwhile, U.S. headquarters said in another fight in the Trang Bang sector, 25th Division units killed 17 enemy after making a helicopter assault Tuesday four miles northeast of the town.

As the American infantrymen hit the ground, the Viet Cong were waiting for them. From trenches and bunkers, the enemy opened up with machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades.

By midafternoon today, sporadic fighting was reported continuing. Headquarters did not disclose U.S. casualties but said no Americans had been killed.

The action around Trang Bang is part of Operation Quyet Thang—Resolved to Win—the biggest allied offensive of the war.

More than 50 American and South Vietnamese battalions, totaling 50,000 men, are sweeping through five provinces around Saigon. The aim is to regain the offensive from the Viet Cong and to destroy enemy troops within striking distance of the capital.

The U.S. Command said that so far allied troops have killed 1,842 enemy and captured 293 prisoners and suspects since Quyet Thang began March 11. U.S. losses were listed at 69 killed and 604 wounded and South Vietnamese casualties at 92 killed and 232 wounded.

By U.S. reckoning, the allied forces are killing 11 enemy troops for every American and South Vietnamese soldier killed.

Elsewhere, Viet Cong shellings of the central highlands provincial capital of Ban Me Thuot and a government military post on the fringes of Saigon killed four civilians and wounded 14. Military casualties were light.

Over North Vietnam, U.S. pilots flew through enemy surface-to-air missiles and heavy antiaircraft fire Tuesday to at-

Hall Explains Industrial Bond Issue To Optimists

William H. Hall, industrial director for Sedalia, presented a report on the facts of the $1,050,000 industrial obligation bonds for the expansion of Town and Country Shoes, at the noon meeting of the Optimist Club Tuesday at State Fair Restaurant. The bonds will be voted on Tuesday, April 2, by the people of Sedalia.

This is the second time that voters of Sedalia have been given an opportunity to expand local industry, Hall said, and it was very fortunate that a new industry came in first. Before new industry takes a look at a community they investigate to see how existing industries feel about it. There are 52 existing industries in Sedalia at the present time, and the voters are asked to vote the same kind of bonds for Town and Country that they recently voted 12 to 1 for Rival Manufacturing Company.

At the present time Town and Country has approximately 600 people employed in Sedalia, Hall said, with about 400 working in a production facility of 20,000 square feet of floor space. The company would move these 400 people to the new, totally air-conditioned plant and add at least 100 new people to the work force in the new building. The present production facility in Sedalia will be remodeled and used for warehousing of raw materials and finished shoes. The administrative offices will remain where they are on Missouri Avenue.

The new building, he explained, will be 65,000 square feet in area, located in the western edge of Sedalia in the city limits between U.S. Highway 50 and Main.

Hall stated that the city could offer to Town and Country, or to any other industry, wanting it, an opportunity to start construction quicker and create new jobs faster through the 20 year industrial obligation bonds than could be accomplished through normal channels of capital improvement financing, and at lower interest rate.

The firm of Austin Co. has made a study of Town and Country. During the 20-year period the company will guarantee, through an executed lease, full payment of the bonds, interest and reserve fund. The city will own the building for the 20 years.

Town and Country Shoes is rated at the top in the country for best payment, Hall said, and has a net worth at the present time of nearly $4 million. It has outlets for its shoes in every

Charge 2 In Shooting Of Horses

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — Two young men, one a university student, face preliminary hearings April 10 in Johnson County Magistrate Court on charges stemming from the shooting of four horses Sunday.

Norman Karlson, 18, and Michael Eastman, 19, are also charged with two counts of malicious wounding of animals in connection with the death of two dogs.

The horses were valued at $2,675. All four were shot in Johnson County pastures by a high-powered rifle.

Karlson, a University of Kansas student, surrendered Tuesday. Eastman was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his home.

At arraignment before Magistrate William S. Allen Tuesday both Karlson and Eastman stood silent when the four felony charges of malicious destruction of property were read to them.

Surprise! Cost Of Living Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose three-tenths of one per cent in February, rising for the fifth straight month at an annual rate of 4 per cent, the Labor Department said today.

At the same time wholesale prices took the biggest monthly jump in two years, seven-tenths of one per cent, including a sharp 1.5 per cent rise in food costs that will probably be reflected later in grocery prices.

"It does appear it will continue to go up," Commissioner Arnold Chase of the Bureau of Labor Statistics said of the rise in the cost of living.

The February increase brought the consumer price index to 119.0, meaning it cost $11.90 last month to purchase typical family goods and services worth $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Despite the price increases, some 45 million American workers gained 55 cents a week in purchasing power as average wages rose to a new high of $104.33. The gain resulted from a longer average work week and a one-cent rise in hourly earnings.

Among the larger February price rises were medical care, up six-tenths of one per cent, housekeeping services, up five-tenths, and increases in mortgage interest, home maintenance and auto repairs.

Abrams to Return to Vietnam Following Talks With Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Gen. Creighton W. Abrams may wind up his hurried visit to Washington later today and return to Vietnam.

Abrams, top deputy to Gen. William C. Westmoreland and generally regarded as the man who will succeed him as commander in the war zone, arrived unannounced Monday night and met twice Tuesday with President Johnson.

The President has not yet formally announced who will take over in Vietnam when Westmoreland returns to the Pentagon to become Army chief of staff.

Abrams had lunch with Johnson Tuesday and the White House said he returned late Tuesday afternoon for a second visit with the President.

Press secretary George Christian would give no details of either meeting. Asked if there were any more meetings scheduled between Johnson and the deputy Vietnam commander, Christian said, "Not that I know of."

The President had a regular meeting of the National Security Council on his Wednesday schedule but Christian said he did not know whether Abrams would be attending. He said he did not believe the subject of Vietnam was on the agenda for the NSC meeting.

The Defense Department said Abrams' plans for the rest of the day were not firm and no time had been set for his departure.

"He is hopeful that he may be able to leave later today to return to Vietnam," the department said in a brief statement.

The 53-year-old Abrams was in the Pentagon before 8 a.m. reading the usual overnight flow of military cables from Vietnam.

Later he sat in on the regular operations and intelligence briefings conducted by staff officers of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The Pentagon said Tuesday Abrams was in Washington to report on plans to strengthen and modernize the South Vietnamese army.

In view of speculation about Abrams' future, the Pentagon's explanation for his secret trip seemed rather strained.

Symington: NATO Forces Deteriorating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., says the United States can't wait for reciprocal reductions by the Soviets to cut its troop commitments in Europe.

Symington disputed the contention of Harlan Cleveland, U. S. ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, that the defense organization is experiencing a revival. Instead, the Missouri senator said it is deteriorating.

He took issue with Cleveland's statement that reduction in U.S. troop commitments should wait until the Soviets are willing to make similar cuts.

Annexation Declined By High Point Voters

Voters of the High Point School District 30 voted 62 to 25 against annexation to Sedalia District 200 Tuesday afternoon.

By failing to pass the annexation measure, the school will continue to operate in its present facilities. The school has 44 students in eight grades. One teacher has a college degree and another has a state certificate granted to those without a college degree but who have more than 60 college credits and can pass the state test.

The school district also includes about 20 high school students who have been paying tuition to Smith-Cotton High School. If the annexation measure had passed, the high school students would have had the benefits of free tuition and bus service as would the grade school students.

The school district has a low tax levy, according to George Thompson, county superintendent of schools. The present levy is $2 per $100 assessed valuation, and if the measure had passed the levy would have gone to $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation.

Salveter Gives Address At Democratic Meeting

The first Democratic meeting of the campaign for the city election was held Tuesday night at the Mark Twain School cafeteria with more than 225 attending. Henry C. Salveter, banker and attorney, gave the principal talk of the meeting which was presided over by City Chairman John Vandekamp.

Bob Seelen, First Ward committeeman, opened the meeting and introduced Chairman Vandekamp.

The Democratic candidates introduced were: Mrs. Opal Hugelman, for re-election as city collector; Adam Fischer, for city attorney; John M. Blue, for re-election as assessor; Mrs. Perry L. Strole, for re-election as city treasurer; Judge Lawrence N. Englund, for re-election as police judge; Jesse "Sonny" Robinson, for councilman of the First Ward; Lavern Master, councilman Second Ward; Robert "Bob" Wells, councilman Third Ward; and Leo Letourneau, councilman Fourth Ward.

Mrs. Hugelman told the group, "I am seeking re-election for city collector. For the past four years I have served in this office, succeeding my late husband Frank Hugelman. During this time my office has made every effort to see that each and every citizen has been treated with courtesy and understanding. The job of city collector requires a great deal of time, energy and experience. As the experienced candidate for the office I hold, I will greatly appreciate your vote and support."

Robinson spoke briefly stating, "After being approached by a number of friends and voters of this ward to run for our City Council, it seemed to me that any citizen of Sedalia should volunteer his services to the community, if the citizens wanted that service. Sedalia has been very good to me, and I assure you that if I am elected I will do everything in my power to be just as good for Sedalia and the First Ward. I appreciate the work that has been done in my behalf so far, and I need and want your support and vote on April 2."

In his talk, Salveter spoke on the accomplishments of Sedalia since he came here more than 30 years ago. He told of the various city administrations, and stressing the accomplishments under the Democrats.

Concluding his talk, Salveter said, "The qualifications of a public official require a knowledge of the office and its duties, the ability to serve efficiently in that office and willingness to give his best efforts if elected.

"The Democratic candidates are well known in the community, and the citizens of Sedalia can have full confidence that they have the qualifications to merit their vote next Tuesday," Salveter remarked.

Ask Dubcek To Resist Pressures

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's cultural elite called today on Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek to resist outside pressure after he acknowledged the Soviet bloc showed "a certain concern" over reform here.

An open letter signed by 134 writers and artists said Czechoslovakia had "to resist certain pressures prompted by doubts over the character and aims" of the country's liberalization drive.

They referred to criticism of the new course at an East European summit meeting last weekend at Dresden. The orthodox regime of neighboring East Germany was particularly harsh.

In pledging support to the new leadership, the writers and artists said: "We consider the current process of democratization as a road that is to lead to permanent democracy, and not merely a method aimed at replacing one group of people by another group, with their thoughts and working habits remaining the same."

Plan to Use Laser to Send Space Message

WASHINGTON (AP)—Weather permitting, scientists plan to make communications history tonight by sending for the first time a message by laser beam to an orbiting satellite, for prompt replay back to earth.

Engineer Ed Reid, at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., is to aim the argon laser at the Explorer 36 satellite at 8:29 p.m., EST as it passes overhead.

Using the concentrated beam of light much in the manner of a signalman's blinker light, Reid will send in Morse code the phrase, "NASA laser test."

Explorer 36, launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration last Jan. 11, is in orbit between the altitudes of 671 and 976 miles.

Guard Blocks Delegates

National Assembly delegates—one putting a handkerchief to his face to cut tear gas fumes—are pushed back from the entrance to the National Assembly in Panama City by National Guardsmen. The troops, loyal to impeached President Robles, blocked a session of the assembly called by the new president, Max Delvalle. (UPI)

National Guard's Commander Blocks Panamanian President

PANAMA (AP) — Hoarse from tear gas in a confrontation with the Panama National Guard, the president installed by the National Assembly said Tuesday night he would try to fire the guard's commander today.

President Max Delvalle, his cabinet and legislators were kept from meeting in the assembly Tuesday by Brig. Gen. Bolivar Vallarino, commander of the 4,000-man guard, the country's only armed force. Rioting followed.

Vallarino told The Associated Press: "There are not two presidents in Panama. The constitutional president is Marco A. Robles unless the Supreme Court rules otherwise, in which case the National Guard will abide by that pronouncement." The court convenes Monday.

Robles was ousted by the assembly Sunday in a 30-0 impeachment conviction on charges that he violated the constitution by promoting a candidate to succeed him in the May 12 elections.

Delvalle seemed cheerful as he spoke with newsmen after a cabinet meeting in his suburban home. He would not say what was discussed at the meeting but asserted the dismissal of Vallarino and all four of his top subchiefs probably would be acted on today.

Downtown Panama appeared quiet Tuesday night after guardsmen dispersed crowds with tear gas and rifle shots, and seven persons were treated for gunshot wounds. Delvalle and his deputies, caught briefly in the melee outside the assembly hall, ducked into their cars and drove away.

A large group of newsmen and cameramen were engulfed in tear gas and a hail of flying objects. Associated Press photographer James Bourdier was struck in the ankle by a grapefruit-sized rock but was not badly hurt.

Police arrested one member of the opposition today and sought another on charges of possessing Molotov cocktails, bombs made by filling bottles with gasoline.

Mayor Walker Keynotes A Second Ward Meeting

Mayor Ralph Walker, keynote speaker Tuesday night at a Second Ward Republican meeting, told the group that a limited budget is the "common denominator of almost every problem with which a city or town is faced."

Walker added, "Since the problems of cities exist at home, they can best be solved at home. We need only the authority and the fiscal means to do the job and I think we have a right to expect the legislature to recognize this." He criticized legislators for not giving municipalities the authority to solve their own problems.

He said he considered his basic duty that of "helping to provide a climate conducive to growth through individual responsibility and initiative."

Elaborating on his point that limited funds are the biggest problem confronting local government, the mayor added that he had little faith that a much discussed system of block grants from the federal government to state and local governments will ever materialize.

"It appears for the most part that we will have to go it alone." Walker added in regard to finances.

Walker concluded his talk with a plea for nonpartisan cooperation between Democrats and Republicans to meet city problems.

The meeting was attended by Republican candidates for office who spoke briefly: Harry Naugel, GOP candidate for Second Ward councilman; Aaron Haller, candidate for First Ward councilman; Carl Landes, Third Ward councilman candidate; George Dugan, Jr., incumbent Fourth Ward councilman; Harry Young, candidate for city assessor, and Paul Bidstrup, police judge candidate. They were recognized by Leroy Juchs, Republican city chairman.

The group also heard William Hall, director of the Sedalia Department of Industrial Development, speak on behalf of the Town and Country bond issue.

Payment By MPSC Made to the City

Missouri Public Service Company today made its first quarterly electric and gas franchise payment for 1968 to the City of Sedalia for the use of streets and alleys.

Clinton Black, district manager, gave the city clerk a check in the amount of $36,762.42, which is one-fourth of the franchise payment based on the company's sales of electricity and gas to consumers in Sedalia during 1967. Additional payments will be made during the year at the end of each quarter.

The franchise payments are in addition to real estate, personal property and other taxes paid to Pettis County, including the City of Sedalia.

Opposition Leader

Roberto (Tito) Arias, an opposition deputy in the Panamanian National Assembly, speaks to newsmen in Panama City. Arias is the nephew of opposition leader Dr. Arnulfo Arias, whose Assembly forces obtained the impeachment of President Marco A. Robles recently. However, Robles remains in control. Roberto Arias is the husband of Dame Margot Fonteyn, the famed ballerina. He has been paralyzed since 1964, when he was shot in the back by a political rival. (UPI)

Error on Tax Levy

It was incorrectly reported in the Sunday Democrat-Capital that the tax levy for the Georgetown School District would go from $2.50 to $3.50 if the district voted for annexation. The levy would be $2.82 if the district approved annexation to the Sedalia School District 200, according to George Thompson, county superintendent of schools.

Vacancies Available For Workers

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—An officer of the Union Pacific Railroad says none of the 128 crewmen who operate the Portland Rose will lose their jobs if the train is abandoned.

A series of Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on the abandonment moved to Salina today.

The testimony about employment prospects for the crewmen was presented in Kansas City Tuesday by Robert W. Hopkins of Omaha, assistant to the railroad's vice president for operations.

He said it takes 128 people to operate the two daily passenger trains between Kansas City and the Pacific Northwest.

James R. Maret, assistant general counsel to the Missouri Public Service Commission, asked Hopkins:

"Do you mean that there would be vacancies for all of these men?"

"Yes, sir, I do," Hopkins replied. "We are hiring more men all the time. There is a particular shortage of trainmen at Kansas City."

Hopkins said some of the crewmen from the passenger trains will find comparable jobs in the freight service, some with less seniority will drop from engineer to fireman or conductor to brakemen.

The railroad pleads that the loss of mail contracts and dwindling passenger traffic leave it with heavy losses on the Portland Rose. Its abandonment would leave the Union Pacific with only one train daily in each direction on its line between Kansas City and Cheyenne, Wyo., by way of Denver.

state in the union, Canada and overseas.

Hall stressed the point that when voters go to the polls next Tuesday they will be given five ballots, the one for the industrial obligation bonds for Town and Country which will not raise the taxes, the library one mill tax, the city candidates, the maintaining of the same tax levy for the schools and the election of delegates for the Sedalia school board.

The speaker was introduced by Lewis Taylor, program chairman.

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson, president-elect, presided over the business meeting in the absence of the president, Lee Deason. Invocation was given by Wray Schroeder.

Mrs. Dorothy Hopkins spoke briefly on the newly organized Arts Council in Sedalia which is presenting on Friday evening, March 29, "The Glass Menagerie" at Smith-Cotton auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

The Optimist Club will meet at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 2, instead of noon, at Flat Creek Inn. The dinner will be served upstairs and then the group will go the basement room for the annual Boys Oratorical Contest.

The club voted to let the new Explorer Scout Troop sell the cushions on which there is a picture of the Old Covered Bridge and giving them a per cent on each cushion sold.

To Save a Life

Firemen and other rescuers struggle with a young woman who threatened to jump from a narrow fifth floor ledge of the Park Royal Hotel in London. A large crowd gathered to watch rescurers struggle with the screaming woman. Eventually, the woman, who was unidentified, was brought to the ground and taken to a hospital. (UPI)

Care More for Money

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — When a robber entered a suburban bank office Tuesday and ordered teller Mary Young to fill a sack with currency, she did so —deftly slipping a tear gas cartridge in with the money.

Officers arrested two men and two women fifteen minutes later, and said some of them had tear gas on their clothing. One of the men, they said, suffered tear gas burns and had been crying.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation later brought bank robbery charges against Thomas Theodore Pacheco, 27, and Theodore Samuel Pacheco Jr., 30, both of Salt Lake City. The FBI said $1,548 taken from the bank was recovered.

Got Out in Time

KANSAS CITY (AP) — "I grabbed the kids and got out of there in a hurry." That's what Mrs. Charlotte Crozier said after her car stalled on a railroad track at a street crossing. Mrs. Crozier, daughter Michelle, 5, and son Bill, 3, watched from 30 feet away as a freight train smashed into her car.

Articles From Here Reach Needy Children in Korea

About a year ago Capt. F.G. Blackburn made this appeal through a letter to his wife, the former Laura Fairfax, formerly of Sedalia: "Please send all the blankets, clothing and shoes you can collect. Many Korean orphans are sick from this severe winter cold." Well, over 1,000 pounds of the requested articles were collected and sent to Korea to be distributed at the orphanage in Puson, Korea, and delivered.

Capt. and Mrs. Blackburn, informed Mrs. Blackburn's mother, Mrs. Fred Boatright, 411 East Third, the entire shipment had arrived and was delivered. Capt. Blackburn, and his assisting sergeant, met this month at Ft. Ruker, Ala., after each had lost contact with the other in Korea, and his sergeant delivered the good news.

In April 1966 the first shipment had arrived and Capt. Blackburn made the delivery with the help of the sergeant to the orphanage, and he was then transferred to Vietnam and lost contact with the sergeant. His first shipment contained 42 blankets and a box with approximately 25 pairs of slightly worn children's shoes. Capt. Blackburn left word with the Sergeant he was expecting additional boxes and for him to see that they were delivered when they arrived.

His sergeant learned Capt. Blackburn was now at Ft. Ruker, Ala., and made a special effort to locate him and tell him about the arrival and delivery of the additional clothing.

"It arrived on an Air Force C-130 which normally carried foodstuffs, but this trip had only 20 crates of lettuce in the line of food. That big-bellied airplane was completely filled with boxes of little clothes which had been mended and laundered by Sedalia Christians for the orphanage in Puson, Korea. I loaded, "the Sergeant told Capt. Blackburn," the airfield station wagon, the airfield 'follow-me' jeep, and a big truck and started the bumping trip over those primitive Korean roads to the orphanage.

"Those little children were happier than American children at Christmas," the Sergeant said.

The Bethany Baptist Women's Missionary Union, friends from the Otterville Baptist church, members of the Flat Creek Extension Club, and many other contributors took part in gathering the articles and preparing them for shipment. It started during the early part of February and resulted in well over 1,100 pounds.

Capt. and Mrs. Blackburn and the Puson Orphanage express their appreciation to all who had a part in making the project possible and so successful.

tack three airfields, a chemical plant and a railroad yard during 82 missions. Headquarters said American pilots picked up several North Vietnamese MIG21 interceptors on their radar, but there were no encounters.

In another offensive in the hard-hit Mekong Delta, South Vietnamese troops reported killing 144 Viet Cong in a series of three battles Tuesday.

The heaviest fighting was near Soc Trang, a provincial capital 100 miles south of Saigon, where Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen claimed 98 Viet Cong were killed in day-long fighting.

Five South Vietnamese soldiers were reported killed and 35 wounded.

In a second action, South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with elements of the 263rd Viet Cong Main Force Battalion 32 miles south southwest of Saigon. At last report, the fighting was continuing with 31 enemy reported dead so far. Government casualties were not reported.

South Vietnamese forces have been trying to regain the initiative from the Viet Cong in the delta, heavily hit in the enemy's lunar new year offensive.

Elsewhere, North Vietnamese gunners shelled for the second consecutive morning today the U.S. Provisional Corps Headquarters at Phu Bai, the tactical command post for American units fighting along the northern frontier.

Gunners hit the complex with 55 rounds of rockets and mortars. There was no report of damage. Casualties were said to be light.

North Vietnamese gunners pumped 55 rounds of rockets and mortars into the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh Tuesday, about the same number of rounds that fell into the strongpoint Monday.

The shelling has tapered off for the past three days after barrage of 600 rounds each last Friday and Saturday.

AP correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Khe Sanh that, besides the thousands of North Vietnamese troops surrounding the base, the Marines there also had another worry—thousands of rats that have invaded the sandbagged fortress.

Because of the threat of constant enemy shelling and sniping, disposal of refuse has become a problem, and the rats have been attracted by the plentiful food.

Chamber Divisions Meet To Plan Their Projects

Meetings have been set up by Gary N. Cooper executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, for directors of various Chamber divisions to plan work for each division, estimate the amount of money needed to carry out programs and select division committees.

On Wednesday afternoon the Governmental Affairs Division was to meet, with William H. Hall, Dr. A. R. Maddox and the Rev. George Sparling directors. J. L. Van Wagner, second vice-president, under whose supervision this division is assigned, was to meet with them.

The Military Affairs Division of which Dan Robinson is director, will meet with the first vice-president on Thursday.

Friday will be a meeting of the Public Relations and Conventions Division, with James Edwards, J. L. Mathewson, directors, and Carl Yates, Jr., ex officio director. Meeting with them will be the second vice-president.

Scheduled for next week will be the Agricultural and Farm Marketing Division, William Hiatt, Jr., director, in charge, with members Bill Burkholder, Dan Robinson and Cliff Barr, to meet with the first vice-president.

On this division are all members of the board. This will be the last division to meet that they may consider the requests of the other divisions and prepare the budget for the year.

Present at all of these meetings will be Thomas T. Keating, president, and Gary Cooper.

When the plans have been made by the various divisions they will be compiled into a Program of Work which will be printed and mailed to the membership of the Chamber.

No Sign Yet Rusk Will Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk is closing in on his own modern-day record of not holding scheduled Washington news conferences.

If Rusk meets with the Washington news corps before heading off this weekend to an international conference it will be his first such news session since a year-ender last Jan. 4.

The State Department press office has the usual requests from reporters to question Rusk before his Saturday departure for a series of three meetings at Wellington, New Zealand, with the foreign ministers of nations concerned with the Vietnam war.

So far, there is no sign he will say yes.

During his first seven years as secretary of state—and counting the January meeting —Rusk has held 58 formal news conferences in Washington for an average of about 8 a year.

He averaged one a month during 1964, the last presidential campaign year, while holding only five a year in 1963 and 1967.

Comparing this with his predecessors in the top U.S. foreign policy post over the past 20 years, State Department files show:

—Secretary of State George C. Marshall or his stand-in as acting secretary held 51 scheduled news conferences in 1948, approximately one a week.

—During Dean Acheson's four-year tenure, there were 146 such conferences, or about 36 a year.

—John Foster Dulles held 119 news conferences during his six years as secretary of state for an average of about 20 a year.

The figures do not include many other public appearances by Rusk and his predecessors, private meetings with newsmen or news conferences outside the capital.

Rusk and his aides have given various reasons over the years about why he was not holding news conferences on one occasion or another. The most frequent explanation has been that he had a heavy schedule of other commitments.

But a common impression among reporters covering the State Department is that Rusk doesn't relish on-the-record question-and-answer sessions on foreign affairs situations with large numbers of newsmen—even though he may enjoy talking with many of them privately.

At his first Washington news conference, on Feb. 6, 1961, Rusk said, "I do hope to have frequent press conferences." He held 10 in 1961, eight in 1962 and five in 1963.

In 1966, Rusk told a March 25 news conference, "I expect to have perhaps some more press conferences than I have had recently." That year he had 10, the following year 5.

Kennedy's Name Gets Back On Front Pages

ATHENS (AP) — News about Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., returned to the front pages of Greek newspapers today 24 hours after the Greek regime ordered the nation's press to play down reports about him and his presidential aspirations.

The Kennedy news ban was lifted after the regime showed signs of anxiety about the stir it might cause in the United States. Within hours after news of the order reached the United States, regime press officials indicated the ban may have been a big mistake.

Like the original order issued Tuesday the counter order was given to news editors orally and without explanation.

Later editors received a memo from Premier George Papadopoulos which said the original order was the work of censorship officials who did not know that they were doing.

With the ban off, Athens papers gave play to Kennedy that in some cases overshadowed the report of a speech by Papadopoulos.

Little Support For Kennedy, McCarthy

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey of the nation's Democratic governors showed scant support today for either Sen. Robert F. Kennedy or Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

An Associated Press survey found that 14 of the 24 Democrats occupying state house chairs express support for President Johnson for renomination.

Only one—Philip H. Hoff of Vermont—is unequivocally for Kennedy. One other—Harold E. Hughes of Iowa—may be learning toward Kennedy or McCarthy.

Six of the governors appear uncommitted. Two others stand apart from the party.

Hoff stands alone among the Democratic governors in his break with President Johnson.

"I have concluded," Hoff said last Friday, "that the only way in which our potentially disastrous national course can be arrested is through a change in our national leadership."

Hughes, a close friend of the President and chairman of the Democratic governors, said he will continue to support Johnson until it becomes clear the President refuses to change his Vietnam policies.

"I may reach the point," Hughes said, "of totally and conclusively breaking with the current administration. . .I have reached a decision that a policy of guns and butter is not feasible."

Hawaii's Gov. John A. Burns said he's "pretty sure that Hawaii will continue to support the President in light of Johnson's outstanding record and especially because Hawaii remembers him as a man who brought statehood to us."

But Burns described Kennedy's aspirations as "interesting." He said the challenges "further demonstrate that the Democratic party is an open party."

New Hampshire Gov. John W. King, a leader of the controversial Johnson write-in campaign in the March primary there, is solidly in the Johnson camp. Indiana Gov. Roger D. Branigin has agreed to run as a Johnson standin in the state's May 7 presidential primary.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois says he's with Johnson. So do Govs. Calvin L. Rampton of Utah and John N. Dempsey of Connecticut.

New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes says he's with Johnson all the way, charging that Kennedy's entry into the race could cause a "disruptive split" in the party. Robert E. McNair of South Carolina says he favors the President over either McCarthy or Kennedy.

One of the 14 counted in the Johnson camp, Gov. William L. Guy of North Dakota, gave this reason: "President Johnson is the elected President of the United States and as such I will support him in that office. President Johnson is the commander-in-chief of the U.S. armed forces. We are engaged in a war. I must support him, whether I agree with his military strategy or not; for if I did not, at this moment, I would thus fail to support our troops in their perilous position."

Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana, counted with the President, said he plans to see that his state's delegates are delivered for Johnson, although he said he is not necessarily announcing his support for any candidate.

In Kansas, Gov. Robert Docking has said it would be most unusual if the state delegation doesn't back the President, at least on the first ballot at the convention. But a Docking aide said it now appears that although the state party convention next weekend will bind the 40-member delegation to a unit rule, it will not be committed.

Others joining Docking in reserving decision are Gov. John Bell Williams of Mississippi, Miles E. Godwin of Virginia, Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, Dan K. Moore of North Carolina and Kenneth E. Curtis of Maine.

Alabama Gov. Lurleen Wallace supports her husband, former Gov. George Wallace in his third party quest for the presidency. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia has been critical of Johnson, McCarthy and Kennedy.

Television Channels Brightened

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Two extraordinary programs, vastly different in mood and approach, brightened the television channels Tuesday night. One showed the miracle of life and the other the tragedy of age.

They were ABC's thoughtful and tender story of "How Life Begins," and CBS's "Don't Count the Candles," a perceptive and dismaying reflection on the loneliness and frustration of advancing years.

The story of the beginning of life came in the early evening period when in many homes, the whole family could view it together. The program began at the beginning—with the sea, and then described the way in which the many forms of life developed. With Eddie Albert narrating a deceptively simple script, the audience was led to a point where it seemed quite natural to see a bitch giving birth to a litter of puppies, a calf being born, and then, a smiling young woman giving birth to her baby. It was done quietly, without dramatic flourishes. The result was tremendously effective.

Film showing flowers opening and chicks emerging from their shells are fairly commonplace, and so are the birds and bees stories. Although all these were present in the Jules Power production, there were other, unusual illustrations of the creation of life—the fetus of a kangaroo emerging from the womb and struggling to find its mother's pouch; the birth of a stream of tiny sea horses emerging fully developed from the body of their father; film showing the development of a human through all the stages from conception to birth.

It was a truly fine program and should be repeated often.

At the other end of the evening there was a sometimes shattering study of the emptiness of old age and a merciless reflection of the accompanying feeling of uselessness.

The program was the work of Lord Snowdon, husband of England's Princess Margaret, and it was from start to finish an impressive piece of work. A still photographer by profession, Lord Snowdon was fascinated by the small, significant detail—the wrinkles, the warts, the veined hands of his subjects.

Some of the sequences were painful to watch. There were Noel Coward and Cecil Beaton, both keeping stiff upper lips about advancing years and talking of loneliness. There was a retired admiral and his wife, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria, grumbling about their aches and pains and deafness.

There was real tragedy in a sequence showing an arthritic man being taken to an old age home while on the sound track, his children were explaining, almost too much, why they could no longer keep him with them. The old man, tears showing in his eyes, said nothing, just took off his glasses and polished them carefully with trembling hands.

It was not a happy hour, but it was a moving one for those who could bear to sit through it.

Unceremonious Arrival

A new $50,000 home was ready in a garden at the new Japanese Cultural and Trade Center in San Francisco and its occupants were rather unceremoniously introduced to their new surroundings. Some thirty rare "Nishikigoi," or fancy carp—all brought from Japan, were scooped from baskets by, left to right, Kazuo Takeda, who accompanied the fish from Japan, Shirley Matsuhiro, 20, and Karin Sakamoto, 19, both of San Francisco. The carp were a gift to the center, which was dedicated Wednesday. (UPI)

Impasse Reached On Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration—its guns and butter pledges exposed to partisan fire by a Treasury official's statement—also is snared in a Vietnam-related impasse over its $3 billion foreign-aid request.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has suspended consideration of the foreign-aid bill until Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford agrees to testify in public on its military-aid provisions, which involved $420 million.

A committee source said Tuesday it probably will be up to a month before Clifford shows up. The committee does not plan to call any other witnesses in the meantime, said the source.

The White House responded cooly meanwhile to Undersecretary of the Treasury Joseph W. Barr's suggestion that the nation can't fully meet both war and domestic needs without reducing the standard of living.

White House press secretary George Christian said, "Obviously, we are going to have to defend freedom abroad and social progress here."

Christian did not specifically deny Barr's comment that the standard of living would have to be reduced if both war and domestic commitments are to be fully met.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said President Johnson should be as candid with the people as Barr was in his Capitol Hill testimony on Monday.

"Barr also was candid enough to admit what Republicans have pointed to repeatedly as one of the basic causes for our present financial woes—that the Johnson administration has badly underestimated its military spending," Ford said.

Focus on war policy was sharpened with the arrival in Washington of Army Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, deputy U.S. commander in Vietnam. His visit included a talk with Johnson and stirred anew speculation he is destined to replace Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who is leaving the Vietnam command by July 2 to become Army chief of staff.

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield told the Senate he firmly opposes any increases in U.S. troop strength in the war zone.

In Des Moines, Iowa, it was announced that Methodist bishops of eight states have called for a unilateral cease-fire by the United States and South Vietnam, coupled with initiation of peace talks with North Vietnam under U.N. auspices.

"Military victory has become more of an obsession than a reality," said Iowa Methodist Bishop James S. Thomas.

He said similar statements were issued by Methodist bishops in Nebraska, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Colorado and Washington.

Some six million bow-and-arrow enthusiasts have made archery one of the fastest growing sports in America.

Mixture of Pessimism, Optimism Found in Youth

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — She is slender and tall and lovely and blue- eyed and fair-haired and terribly young and has that odd mixture of pessimism and optimism found only in youth.

"The world is in a bit of a muddle now," said Janette McLeod, 17, who represents Australia in the "Miss Teen International Pageant" at Los Angeles April 13. "There are a lot of things that are happening at the moment and they don't look as if they'll have an end to them.

"But I don't think the world will end in my lifetime. It had better not.

"I used to have a dream—all the time—that the sun would go down sometime, and never come out again. I'd like to know what that dream means. It's frightening. It could happen."

At 17, of course, anything can happen. Miss McLeod, who quit school a year ago to study commercial art, became a fashion and television model instead. If she wins against nine other competitors in the "Miss Teen International" contest next month, she is hopeful the victory will serve as a springboard to an international career in films, television or modeling.

Janette, who has been an outdoor girl all her life, isn't too hopeful of her prospects.

"I'm a bit too wholesome," she said. "I weigh 127 pounds and am 5 feet 8½ inches tall—that does sound better than saying 5 feet, doesn't it?"

Janette, who is extremely self-possessed for her age, is the daughter of a Sydney bakery owner. Her mother is a former district commissioner of the Girl Guides, who are equivalent to our Girl Scouts.

American teen-agers have impressed Janette with their vitality and vigorous reach for freshness.

"They seem to be right up to it in fashions and everything else," she said. "They stick together and go to the same places more than teen-agers do in Australia.

"The teen-agers there mix with the older people more. They're not on their own so much. But I suppose teen-agers are pretty much the same everywhere.

"The biggest complaint Australian parents have about teen-agers is the time they get home. I'm supposed to be home by midnight after a party. But we live 30 miles from Sydney — too far out to have a proper time if I get home by midnight."

Teen-age monopolization of the family telephone is also a problem in the land down under.

"I talk about 1½ hours a night on the phone," confessed Janette. "What do we talk about? Oh, who did what and why — everything and nothing much — you just ramble on.

"While I'm talking on the phone I usually sit and watch the television, so I'll have something else to do. A lot of nonsense, isn't it?"

How about teen-age dating?

"Some girls start dating at 12 or 13, but most don't make a habit of it until 15 or 16. Then they go everywhere together. The girl and her steady exchange friendship rings. I don't like that myself. I couldn't be tied down as yet. Not me."

The things Janette wants to see most in America are the White House and Disneyland. She has had a ride on the subway here and found it "dirtier and noisier" than a journey on one back home.

Her personal heroine is Julie Andrews. Her heroes are actor Albert Finney, President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Of Sen. Kennedy she remarked: "I loved his brother so much. The whole world seemed to go down after he died."

Of her first few days in America she said:

"Everything here is on the grand scale. Everybody who comes to our country says we are hospitable, but you are even more friendly over here.

"We are worried about Vietnam just as you are.

Upon leaving Janette, I wondered if the world situation wouldn't be better if every country picked wholesome teen-agers as its ambassadors. It would at least give diplomacy a more sparkling appeal.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to the girl with the alcoholic father? She signed her letter "Can't Call Him Daddy." That letter could have been written by me, 10 years ago.

How vividly I recall the day I found my rabbit dead in her cage. I ran to tell my father the terrible news, hoping for a word of comfort. Instead, my mother closed the bedroom door and said, "Don't bother your Dad tonight. He's sick."

There seemed to be numerous occasions when Dad was "sick" but it wasn't until years later that I realized he was an alcoholic. There were times when I hated him for embarrassing me and then I'd feel guilty for my horrible thoughts. But through the years my thinking has changed. Dad still drinks but the hate is gone and I feel sad that I cannot help him.

So try something, "Can't Call Him Daddy" — say a little prayer and ask for help in overcoming your feeling of hate. Ask that the hate be replaced with compassion and understanding. Then one day you will be able to put your arms around him and say, "I may despise some of the things you do, Daddy, but I love you." —HIS DAUGHTER

Dear Daughter: The ability to replace hatred with compassion and understanding does even more for the hater than for the hated. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's sister never married. Bonnie "went with" a man who had a cloudy reputation. When he died last year she came into a great deal of money.

We are not millionaires but I have a good income and we have everything we need. The problem is that Aunt Bonnie buys ridiculously extravagant gifts for her favorite niece — our 11-year-old daughter, Mary. (A cashmere coat with mink collar and cuffs and a matching mink hood for Christmas.) Whatever Mary sees she can get her Aunt Bonnie to buy.

Yesterday I told Mary she could not have a second pair of white boots so she telephoned her Aunt Bonnie and they are going shopping tomorrow. What can I do? — DEFEATED

Dear Defeated: If you allow a stupid aunt to mess up your daughter's life it is YOUR fault, not hers. Tell Aunt Bonnie, in Mary's presence, that she is NOT to buy one single thing for the girl unless you approve in advance. If she sends something unauthorized, send it back.

What Aunt Bonnie thinks is generosity is ruination. Lavishing gifts on a child is a poor way to demonstrate interest.

Dear Ann Landers: May I give a word of advice to the woman who threw out her dinner night after night because her husband wouldn't telephone and let her know he had a business meeting and would be a few hours late?

I had the same problem, only my husband wasn't held up by anything so high class as a business meeting. He used to stop off at a bar and get stoned. When he finally decided to come home, his dinner was either grease-soaked or burned and I had to throw it out and start all over.

After a few years I got smart and told him I wasn't going to start dinner until I saw the whites of his eyes — unless, of course, he telephoned to say he was on his way. After coming home and finding no dinner six or seven times he decided he'd better call. This is how I solved the problem. BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

Dear Bing: Three cheers for a smart lady in Binghamton! This approach will not work in every case, but it's bound to work in some. Thanks for the suggestion.

Students Raise Cash For Injured Youth

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Students at Grand Junction Central High School collected $532 to aid Ron Hall, paralyzed last November in a scholastic wrestling accident.

The money was raised during a school assembly at which students paid to throw pies at teachers. The results were filmed and sent to Halsey at the Craig Rehabilitation Center in Denver.

Biblical Gardens Discussed By Local Speaker

Community Teachers Association met Wednesday morning at the Farm and Home Building with Mrs. Ernest Knox giving a discussion of "The Gardens of the Bible."

She explained that until two hundred years ago no one had investigated plants from the Holy Land. A Swedish botanist and his five associates in making a study of this land found 6300 different varieties.

Mrs. Knox told of the seven gardens of the Bible and showed pictures from the book, "Flowers of the Holy Land."

Souveirs were also shown by Mrs. Knox including jewelry, a Biblical cook book, a doll, etc.

Miss Frances Garman, president, read a poem "Old Age."

Mrs. Clyde Heynen, Mrs. Raymond Goddard, and Miss Edna Snell were hostesses.

Expresses Concern Over War

CHICAGO (AP) — William G. Clark, selected as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate after a leading contender questioned U.S. policies in Vietnam, has expressed "grave concern" about the war and called for a review of U.S. policy in Vietnam.

Some political observers interpreted the Clark statement as a trial balloon.

"I have grave concern regarding the wisdom of our present policies in the conduct of the war in Vietnam," Clark said Tuesday in his first campaign news release.

Clark, the Illinois attorney general, was picked for the top spot on the ticket by Democratic slatemakers after Adlai E. Stevenson III said he could not promise complete support in advance to President Johnson's policies in Vietnam.

Stevenson, son of the late U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, had been considered the leading contender to oppose Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., and as a possible candidate for governor. He was passed over for both posts by the Democratic leaders.

In his bid for the senatorial spot on the Democratic ticket, Clark told party leaders last month: "Of course I support President Johnson. He's trying to bring about the peace and he's the only man who can do it."

But Tuesday he called for a review of U.S. policy in Vietnam "because it is obvious to me that most Americans believe that we are dealing with a corrupt and unresponsive government in South Vietnam."

Political writers for both the Chicago Sun-Times and the Chiago Tribune said in this morning's editions that the Clark statement might have been issued with the consent of Mayor Richard J. Daley.

George Tagge in the Tribune said the statement "was considered a major development by politicians because they are certain that Clark issued his statement only after consulting with Mayor Daley."

Daley, the leading Democratic figure in Illinois and a strong supporter of the President, said: "There was no contract between the committee and the candidates. They think for themselves. I didn't know the statement was to be issued and I hadn't seen it."

John Dreiske in the Sun-Times said: "After studying the Clark statement, some Democratic leaders saw the possibility of a major shift in Vietnam policy at the White House level. This opinion was based on the belief the Clark statement might have been issued with Daley's consent as a trial balloon to test the temper of public reaction."

Clark, unopposed in the Democratic primary, said in his statement Tuesday that the U.S. role in Vietnam "has its roots in 1954."

"The initial approach taken by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, which is the foundation of our present policy, must be re-examined in the light of present reality," Clark said.

Later he told newsmen that he had made the statement "to correct many misconceptions of my role in this campaign, particularly in the Eastern press, about my background and my obligations." He denied consulting with Daley before issuing the statement.

Urge $300 Fines For Two Officers

WASHINGTON (AP) — A police trial board Tuesday recommended $300 fines against two District of Columbia policemen charged with firing six shots from their car while driving home from the station house.

The board found the men, Pvts. Thomas Dietrich and Paul M. Angell, along with two others who were in the car but did not do the actual shooting, had been drinking beer and liquor in the station house prior to the incident.

PIN-WORMS
A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Kennedy Turns His Guns Toward Nixon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—carrying his Democratic presidential campaign into Republican Idaho country—has turned his political guns from President Johnson to GOP candidate Richard M. Nixon.

Nixon, Kennedy told a Pocatello, Idaho, college crowd Tuesday, "has had no new ideas in the past decade. (He) says what we are doing is wrong, but we should just do more of it."

The New York senator's jet-age campaign swing moved into Utah today. By Saturday he will have covered a third of the 50 states in two weeks.

In other political developments:

—President Johnson is backed for renomination by 14 of the nation's 24 Democratic governors, an Associated Press survey shows. Only one, Philip H. Hoff of Vermont, commits himself to Kennedy. Another, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, said he leans toward Kennedy or Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.

—McCarthy faced a mutiny by his top press aides, Seymour Hersh and Mary Lou Oates. But campaign advisor Richard N. Goodwin called the dispute a "tempest in a teapot."

—Nixon appeared likely to be able to write his own platform at the Republican National Convention. GOP moderates plan to gather ideas to help shape it, but Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., platform committee chairman, said he suspects their ideas may be lost in the drafting.

—Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace carried his third party presidential candidacy into three southern states —criticizing the major parties and candidate Kennedy in particular.

Kennedy and McCarthy, both concentrating their anti-Vietnam war policy campaigns heavily on college and university campuses, took varying stands Tuesday on the draft issue.

McCarthy drew cheers from students in Wausau, Wis., by calling for the removal of draft director Lewis B. Hershey.

"Men like Hershey," McCarthy said, "must be replaced by administrators who understand that the object of the draft is to defend democracy, not to suppress free speech."

Kennedy in Seattle urged development of a professional army to replace the draft and he also was cheered by students. But he added students deferments should be abolished so long as the Vietnam war continues.

"Is it fair, in your judgment, to those others that they should be drafted and have to go to Vietnam?" he asked. "Why should it be those who are very poor have to bear the burden?"

Wallace, campaigning in Louisiana, Georgia and Florida, called for military victory in Vietnam.

"If we can't win militarily," he said, "I don't know what we're there fore."

Kennedy, Wallace said, "has recommended and supported every policy followed in this country today and yet he says he wants to try something new."

Questions Building Allowance

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A student asked four members of the Missouri Legislature why the budget for new buildings at the University of Missouri in Columbia is twice as much as for the other three branches combined.

The question was posed as the four legislators participated in a forum at the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

The student said the combined enrollment at the St. Louis, Rolla and Kansas City branches is about 20,000 — just about equal to the enrollment at Columbia is $43.6 million and at the three branches $23.6 million.

Rep. Thomas Graham of Jefferson City told the forum that the state does not have enough tax revenue to go around.

"The governor is going to ask for an increase in taxes at the next regular session," Graham said. "Even that won't be enough. We had a tax increase five years ago, but we're going to have to have another."

Rep. Gladys Marriott of Kansas City said the budget for the University of Missouri at Kansas City has increased from $4.7 million to nearly $12.5 in the five years since it was merged into the state university system.

With the completion of the seven buildings now under construction, the Kansas City campus should be in pretty good shape, she said.

One of the legislators said the Jackson County delegation had worked for the appropriation of one million dollars for a parking facility at UMKC.

A student said:

"We don't want parking; we want adequate classrooms."

Arts Council Holds Meeting

The Sedalia Council on the Arts met Tuesday night at the Farm and Home Building for their last meeting before the presentation of "The Glass Menagerie" Friday night.

Advance ticket proceeds were tallied and final plans made for the arrival of the Missouri Vanguard Theatre in Sedalia on Friday morning.

The professional repertory group will present a program at Smith-Cotton for students Friday afternoon, to be followed that night by a paid performance of the Tennessee Williams play.

The night performance will be at 7:30 p.m. at Smith-Cotton Auditorium. Tickets, at $1.50 for adults and $1 for students, are on sale at both Bing's stores, the Missouri Public Service Co., C. W. Flower, the Colonial Shop and the Chamber of Commerce.

"Fight Tooth and Nail"

The expression, "fight tooth and nail," originated with the early Spanish pirates who would hide nails and metal between their teeth when captured, then use them as weapons for escape.

Folk Singer Entertains At Music Club Supper

At the business woman's supper of the Helen G. Steele Music Club on March 20, Jerry Belinson, folk singer from Columbia, was introduced by Mrs. I. H. Lehmer.

Mr. Belinson has been a folk singer since his elementary school days in Illinois and has won honors in music as well as performed on radio, at various colleges and universities from New York to Denver, and at clubs devoted to folk singing. He wrote the music for the Ozark production of "The Shepherd of the Hills" and performs in it each summer.

He began his program with "Winter Sky," and "Western Wind." Andrew Barden's "Henry Martin" was a true folk song with the repetitions and the sad ending typical of early ballads.

Some folk songs of today combine blues and ragtime, as in Jessie Fuller's "San Francisco Blues." A quartette of songs was sung, all of which were in the spirit of war and death. As a children's song, Belinson sang "Red Light, Green Light," followed by the humorous "Jenny Me Fair."

Many other selections were sung, including songs representing the plight of Pennsylvania coal miners, a number by the Beatles, and two encores, "I Found My Love in a Grocery Shop" and "Maria."

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. J. J. McGrath, Mrs. Neal Reyburn, Mrs. James McNeil, and Mrs. Louis Hughes. Place cards were made by Miss Frances Trader. The decorations combined music and spring with small figurines of musicians and miniature musical instruments nestled among jonquils and pussy willow.

Mrs. George Routszong, president, introduced Miss Trudy Searcy, a guest from Columbia, and thanked Mrs. Al Miles for arranging the program. She announced that the next meeting, March 27, will feature Federation Day. The last meeting on April 11, will be the annual business meeting.

Mrs. Eugene Logan, chairman of the state convention of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs to be held Mary 14-16, announced that the state and local committees are planning meetings with a number of well known musicians and speakers on the programs. All meetings are open to members of the Helen G. Steele Music Club.

After the meeting Belinson met informally with members of the club.

At dusk great flocks of starlings roost on federal buildings in Washington, where fancy ornamentations and classic columns make perfect perches.

Grass Fire Runs Wild, Kills Youth

OTIS, Kan. (AP)—A grass fire under observation of volunteer firemen who were burning off the Otis High School track field got out of hand Tuesday in a high wind and burned six boys, one fatally.

The boys, students at the high school, were helping the firemen. All were hospitalized. Charles Menzer, 17, died in the Central Kansas Medical Center at Great Bend. He would have been 18 April 14.

In serious condition with third degree burns at the local center were Michael Bahr and Rick Huff, both 18. Also hospitalized at Great Bend were Dennis Oxman, 17, and Phil Ramirez, 15. Michael Ochs, 16, was hospitalized at Hoisington.

Oxman, Ramirez and Ochs suffered first and second degree burns. Their conditions were reported to be satisfactoy.

Sheriff Jack Mendenhall said the boys were on a fire truck and jumped off and ran in panic from the flames which caught up and surrounded them. The sheriff said he understood the fire department had made arrangements for student help when the fire whipped out of control.

Richard Connell, principal of the high school, said he had asked the fire department to burn off the track field, and denied that the boys had permission to help the firemen. He said he allowed several boys to direct traffic through the smoke on a street near the school.

The fire burned off an estimated 100 acres of pasture on the west edge of Otis before firemen got it out.

Reject Proposal On Preserving Fees

SHELL KNOB, Mo. (AP) — An attempt to preserve recreational fees charged at federally-operated reservoirs met unanimous rejection Tuesday night at a meeting of the Central Crossing Assn.

Army engineers propose a reduction in the fees to offset support of a Senate bill which would eliminate them. The bill's passage has been petitioned by the Central Crossing Assn., and other organizations like it in Missouri and surrounding states.

The association represents operators of tourist facilities in the Table Rock Lake area of southern Missouri.

Regains 'Face'

OSAKA, Japan (AP) — Face has been restored for Tsutomu Katagiri, priest of Osaka's Kitano Tenmangu shrine, whose twin sons last year failed to qualify for entry into the prestigious Kyoto University's School of Agriculture. They passed the examinations this year on their second try. The father's shrine is dedicated to the Deity of Learning.

Interest in Capitalism Gains Ground in Europe

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The contrasts of capitalism and communism create from time to time the very opposite: discussions of the similarities in the two systems. Such examinations have been popular for several years now in academic circles.

Among the factors causing the re-examination is dissatisfaction among Eastern European nations with the workings of their systems, partly because they have failed, partly because youth is replacing the revolutionaries.

And the Soviet experimentation with profits as an incentive has done as much as anything to promote renewed interest among economists.

Russia, despite the appearances of some Soviet statements, did not invent the profit motive. But the Russian sense of discovery that profits sometimes lead to efficiency and bonuses lead to happier workers sometimes gives the impression that something unheard of has been revealed to them.

Y.G. Liberman, a professor at Kharkov University and one of those most responsible for economic reforms in the Soviet Union, now reports big gains by several hundred state-owned enterprises that adopted profit sharing.

Last year, he said, profits of such operations rose 25 per cent, compared with a national average of 10 per cent. Sales rose 10 per cent, compared with 8 per cent for other firms.

Liberman's advocacy of profit incentives is only part of a larger program to revamp almost all the heavy-handed, centrally imposed goals on production, worker quotas, production costs and new technologies.

Meanwhile, in the United States there has been a long trend toward less completely free enterprise and far more involvement of local, state and federal governments in the gross national product.

The result, then, is a discussion that surfaces from time to time about the similarities between the systems of East and West.

Writing in the Columbia Journal of World Business, the director of the Netherlands Economic Institute, Jan Timbergen, gave a typical example:

"In general there is a tendency toward decentralization in the East and one of centralization in the West. Central planning tends to be reduced in the former and strengthened in the latter. More freedom is being given to Eastern managers and less to Western managers."

The similarities, Timbergen reminds readers, results from pragmatism rather than changes in ideologies, and involve economic and social structures only — not politics. And imitation is not involved, he says.

It is easy to believe that the Communist experiment with profits is a result of experience rather than of changes in fundamental beliefs. As the Communist economies developed the old structures cracked.

In the United States, for example, a consumer product is produced to meet a consumer need. American businesses are market oriented; they study consumer needs and then set out to fill the need. There's no use producing what nobody wants.

In Russia until recently, output of farm and factory was determined by an agency sitting atop a large bureaucratic structure. Orders were sent down as to what production would be. That was that.

As a result, production managers viewed their job narrowly: They produced. If they could make high priced dresses more easily than low priced dresses then there was little argument over what to do. A dress was a dress.

The result sometimes was chaotic. Dresses filled warehouses but woman didn't fill the dresses. When warehouses were filled, wholesalers might dump their goods on retailers. Ten-year supplies of stockings, all the same size, might end up at one store.

Things still are dictated from the top, but presumably with less interference. Under Liberman's plan, specific goals would be applied to regional economic councils rather than to individual factories.

More important, bonuses paid for production would be paid in the future for achieving a profit.

One scholar put the "Federalist Papers" into a computer. On the basis of slight stylistic details (Alexander Hamilton used the word "upon" more often than James Madison), the scholar decided that Madison wrote all of 15 papers whose authorship was disputed.

Funeral Director Is Named Coroner

ROCKPORT, Mo. (AP) — Michael D. Minter, Rockport funeral director, has been appointed Atchison County coroner by Gov. Warren Hearnes to fill the unexpired term of Dr. John Wanamaker.

The county has been without a coroner since last April when Wanamaker was elected mayor of Rockport, and resigned as coroner. Minter's appointment ends Dec. 31. He said Tuesday he would file for the Democratic nomination in the spring primary.

Hijack Locomotive

HONG KONG (AP) — A Manchurian-made locomotive was hijacked and disabled by five anti-Maoist guerrillas while it was en route through Red China to become a showpiece of the Canton spring trade fair opening April 15, the Hong Kong Star reported. It did not say where the hijacking occurred.

On field trips, map makers rely on devises such as the tellurometer and electrotape. Employing modulated radio-wave signals, the devices can measure distances up to 50 miles within an accuracy of six inches.

Untouched by War

Framed by barbed wire, a statue of the Virgin Mary stands peacefully in front of Saigon's Central Cathedral, providing one of the contrasts typical of the war-torn Vietnamese nation. The barbed wire is used to close off the street at night and in the daytime is gathered in front of the statue. Despite the wire, a symbol of the war, the cathedral is usually packed during Sunday Masses. (UPI)

Women Take Part In Red Raids

TRANG BANG, Vietnam (AP) — At least six women took part in an assault by Viet Cong troops on an American armored column rushing to reinforce this key district town 28 miles northwest of Saigon, military officers said Tuesday.

Capt. Gordon Lam, 25, of Hon olulu, said he saw six women, including three armed with Chinese Communist AK50 assault rifles charging straight toward his platoon of armored personnel carriers. Three of the women were cut down by .50-caliber machine guns mounted on the armored carriers, Lam said.

Lam said the women were in the first wave of about 20 to 30 Viet Cong troops who charged the armored personnel carriers in broad daylight Monday.

"We kept shooting them from the tracks (the armored personnel carriers) with our 50s" Lam said. "They just stopped coming after we had cut down the first assault wave.

"The rest pulled back and I started to throw mortar fire into their positions. Then I pulled back toward a bridge and made my final assault from the west to the east.

When it was over, I counted 46 enemy bodies, all killed in our area alone."

1st Lt. Daniel A. Bartolomei, 24, of Puerto Rico, a platoon leader, said, "I saw the group that was charging the armored personnel carriers. When I saw them I thought they were ARVN (Army of the Republic of Vietnam) troops. They opened up on us and then they charged us.

"In the first group were five to six women," said Bartolomei. "I could see their long hair. They were dressed in black pajamas."

Bartolomei said he saw the charging enemy troops fall "as we kept shooting."

"I counted 14 of them, mixed with the women, killed after the assault," he said.

U.S. officers said the attack on Trang Bang failed because a battalion of the 23rd Infantry (mechanized), U.S. 25th Infantry Division had been deployed near the town before the Viet Cong started their assault.

Despite booming industrial growth, British Columbia's scenery looks much as it did when Capt. James Cook first landed on Vancouver Island in 1778.

Serious Doubt Concorde Jet Will Get Off Ground

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — There are nagging doubts on both sides of the English Channel that the supersonic airliner Concorde will ever go into service.

The main reasons are financial and political. As for the plane's technical capabilities, French and British engineers connected with the joint project are convinced Concorde can do everything that was promised for it.

The doubts spring from a feeling that the British government, under pressure to make economies, may withdraw from the project when its treaty with France permits it to; that is, after the flight-testing phase of the prototypes.

The feeling of these anti-Concorde officials is that the Concorde as a prestige project ranks low in Britain's scale of priorities while the country is economically beset.

Spiraling costs provide arguments for Concorde's foes.

France and England signed an agreement Nov. 29, 1962 to build what was to be the world's first supersonic passenger plane. Joint development costs were estimated at $420 million, to be shared equally by Sud Aviation, No. 1 airframe builder in France, and the British Aircraft Corp., with the backing of their governments. The agreement involved a commitment to construct two—later four—prototype aircraft and two extra airframes for structural testing.

Two years later, the figure was revised to $784 million. By 1966 the estimated development costs had surpassed $1 billion, and last year were calculated to be $1.4 billion, plus $168 million in direct government spending for tools and test facilities. About $600 million has been spent.

In addition, there have been reports that the builders will lose more than $2 million on every plane sold unless orders for Concorde increase dramatically. So far, 74 paid options have been placed.

Based on a production run of 100 planes, it has been estimated that the real cost per copy will be $2.5 million over the purchase price agreed to by the airlines. The difference presumably would be made up by the two governments.

"If it turns out that the British taxpayer will be contributing up to 50 per cent of every Concorde passenger's fare, we'll have a lot of explaining to do," a British official remarked.

One French official said that if the British canceled at the end of the flight-testing phase, France probably would be forced to drop the project—"It would be too much for us to carry on alone."

French-British relations have been strained by French opposition to Britain's Common Market bid.

A sign of this strain appeared last January after The Associated Press disclosed that the maiden flight of the first Concorde prototype would not take place Feb. 28 as planned.

French Transport Minister Jean Chamant blamed the delay on late delivery of the British-made Olympus 593 engines to the Sud Aviation works in Toulouse where the French-built prototype, 001, has been assembled. In fact, the engines were delivered ahead of schedule. Chamant later retracted his charge.

The latest word is that 001 will be ready for its first flight in September. By that time, its British-built mate, 002, should be ready on schedule to fly at Filton, England.

Spokesmen for Sud Aviation say the delay in getting 001 off the ground has been due to minor problems and does not involve errors in design. The basic timetable calls for certification of airworthiness and production in 1971.

Since the American supersonic transport, the Boeing 2707, has been sent back to the drawing boards for design changes, the Concorde has a built-in, four-year lead over its competitor.

Only Known Flock Of Cranes Leaving

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only known flock of whooping cranes is leaving its winter home in Texas for a 2,500-mile migration to its summer nesting area near the Arctic Circle, the Interior Department said today.

Four of the rare birds left the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas Monday, headed for Wood Buffalo National Park in Canada, the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife reported. The rest of the flock is expected to follow by May at the latest.

Forty-eight whooping cranes arrived at Aransas last fall, a record number since the official count began in 1938 when only 18 were known to exist.

One of the whoopers was killed last January by a hunter who mistook it for a snow goose.

Jamaica consistently produces world-champion boxers, runners and cricketers.

Shaw and O'Toole Both Searching for Some Work

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Spring training will be a little late this year for Jim Kaat, but Bob Shaw and Jim O'Toole are wondering whether it will come at all for them.

Shaw and O'Toole, two of baseball's top pitchers several years ago, were looking for employment today after the Chicago White Sox dropped them Tuesday. At the same time, the Sox gave veteran slugger Rocky Colavito a new chance by selling him to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kaat, Minnesota's ace lefthander who pitched the Twins to the 1966 pennant, started his spring training Monday by hurling 15 minutes of batting practice, and that was as far as he got. The sore elbow that plagued him last year was back again. Kaat's next appearance is not expected until after the season begins April 8.

Jim Bunning, however, indicated he still is one of the National League's indestructible pitchers as he tuned up for an expected leading role in Pittsburgh's pennant chase.

The new Pirate, acquired from Philadelphia last winter, hurled a two-hitter for eight innings as Pittsburg downed Boston 2-1 on Manny Mota's two-run homer in the first.

In other games, Cincinnati belted Los Angeles 7-2, the New York Mets blanked St. Louis 1-0, Atlanta edged Baltimore 2-1, Detroit clobbered Washington 8-0, San Francisco nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2, California bounced Cleveland 6-2, Minnesota topped the New York Yankees 4-2 and the White Sox shutout Oakland 4-0.

The 29-year-old Kaat, who won 25 games in 1966, fell to 16-13 last season. A snapped ligament in his left elbow suffered last Sept. 30 failed to heal completely during the winter.

The elbow still twinges when he throws breaking pitches and Minnesota trainer George Lentz said Kaat will do no more pitching in regular spring training. Twins' President Calvin Griffith said there is a strong possibility Kaat will be on the 15-day disabled list at the start of the season.

Shaw, 34, a 10-year veteran who pitched the White Sox to the 1959 pennant and later starred for Milwaukee and San Francisco, planned to contact Boston and Pittsburgh for a trial.

O'Toole, 31, whose 19 victories helped Cincinnati to the 1961 pennant, had a sore shoulder most of 1967 after the Sox acquired him from the Reds. He and Shaw each started this season as free agents.

Colavito, 34, a homer-hitting outfielder picked up by the Sox in their 1967 pennant struggle, lost his job in spring training to two rookies, Buddy Bradford and Bill Boss.

A former World Series hero, pitcher Larry Sherry, was cut by the Houston Astros, who also named outfielder Jackie Brandt a player-coach with Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League.

Minnesota got by without Kaat, the scheduled starter Tuesday as Jim Perry and rookie Moe Ogier stopped the Yankees and John Roseboro slammed a two-run single in the eighth inning.

Cisco Carlos, Bob Priddy, Wilbur Wood and Hoyt Wilhelm stopped the A's on six hits in the White Sox' victory.

Pitcher Cecil Upshaw singled home a run in the bottom of the ninth with two out for Atlanta's triumph. The Mets scored their first run in 28 innings on ninth-inning doubles by Bud Harrelson and Ken Boswell while Nolan Ryan, Bill Short and Dan Frisella blanked the Cardinals.

San Francisco also won in the ninth as Cub Manager Leo Durocher was ejected for protesting a pitch and reliever Pete Mikkelsen let in the winning run on a wild pickoff throw to first base.

Home runs helped decide the other three games as Lee May slammed a three-run blast for Cincinnati, Bill Freehan cracked one with two on for Detroit and California's Chuck Hinton and Roger Repoz connected for five runs.

Injury Helps Oust Bob Shane

Bobby Shane, St. Louis, lost the match-to-a-finish, Tuesday night, to Nature Boy Kirby, Indianapolis, Ind., although he took four of the six falls involved. Shane was unable to return to the ring after the sixth fall won by Kirby because of a head injury, not of a serious nature.

The match was rough from start to finish with Kirby taking the opening fall in eight minutes and 40 seconds with knee drops and a press. Then Shane came back to win the second in one minute with body slams and press; his second win was in two minutes and 30 seconds using the elbow drop and press; the third fall was won with knee drops and a press in five minutes and 55 seconds and his fourth fall win came after nine minutes and 30 seconds using a shoulder press. Kirby came back and bounced Shane and as the two fought, Kirby got a chair and hit Shane. Shane was unable to regain his stature and lost after two minutes and 35 seconds.

Tommy Martin, who comes from North Dakota, was painfully injured when he was thrown out of the ring by Jack "Ripper" Daniels, after four minutes and 40 seconds. Martin as he hit the floor outside the ring some way twisted his leg and the muscle above the knee was badly pulled and he was unable to return to the ring. Dr. Charles H. Brady who examined him reported he would contact the head trainer for the Kansas City Chiefs on his return to Kansas City. "I doubt very much if he will wrestle again for three or four weeks. He should give the muscle a rest," Dr. Brady reported.

Ronnie Etchison beat Stan Moose of Seattle, Wash., in 11 minutes and 50 seconds with a reverse shoulder press.

The feature event a no time limit, no disqualifications, falls not counting, the winner had to be ready to meet his opponent and if he failed to report at the sound of the bell he was the loser. This brought together Klondike Bill, Alaska, a 347 pound heavyweight against Bob Brown, Montreal, Canada. Klondike put a "block buster" to Brown and that finished the Canadian. Klondike was declared the winner after 15 minutes and 35 seconds.

Excitement of Youth Is Felt by Chicago's Cubs

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Leo Durocher getting thrown out of games... Lou Johnson trying to stretch a triple into an inside-the-park home run... Ernie Banks coming through with clutch hits.

That will be the Chicago Cubs of 1968 as the exciting young club makes a run for the Cubs' first National League pennant since 1945.

Durocher, who has been in professional baseball since 1925 and has managed teams to three pennants, took over the Cubs in 1966. That year they finished last but in 1967 the young pitchers kept them in the pennant chase until August, and the team finished third, 14 games behind St. Louis.

The stars of the mound staff, Ken Holtzman, 22, and Ferguson Jenkins, 24, were hit hard in their early spring training outings.

"I'm not worried," said Durocher. "They'll come around."

Holtzman won six straight last year, went into active reserve duty and won three more pitching on weekends. Jenkins, 20-13 with a 2.80 earned average in 289 innings last year, gave up nine hits and six runs in his first three exhibition innings. Holtzman, in his first six innings, allowed eight hits and six runs.

Joe Niekro, a 23-year-old right-hander who was 10-7 last year, started well in the spring, giving up four hits and no runs in six innings.

The fourth prospective starter, Rich Nye, 23, gave up seven hits and four runs in his first six innings. The left-hander was 13-10 last year.

Of those trying to make the staff for the first time, Dick Calmus, 24, Jim Ellis, 23, Dick Gardner, 23, and Frank Reberger, 23, have been impressive.

In the infield, the Cubs are set with Randy Hundley behind the plate, Banks at first, Glenn Beckert at second, Don Kessinger at short and Ron Santo, who hit 31 homers last year, at third.

Bill Plummer, John Stephenson and John Dudek are battling for the No. 2 catching job. Stephenson is the only one with major league experience, having hit .224 in 16 games last year.

Banks, 37, hit .276 with 23 homers last year in his 15th major league season. He and center fielder Adolfo Phillips led the team in runs batted in through the first seven exhibition games.

Beckert, 27, could be one of the best at second, says Durocher. "I think he can hit .300," said Durocher. "He's hit at least .280 the last two seasons and he seldom strikes out."

Durocher is high on rookie infielder Jose Arcia, 24, who hit .219 for Little Rock in the Pacific Coast League last season.

"There's no way he'll leave us," said Durocher. "He's been playing short because Kessinger has been on active reserve duty, but he's a heckuva second baseman, too. Why do you think I let Paul Popovich go to the Dodgers?"

Johnson, who hit .270 for the Dodgers last season, was cut down trying to stretch a triple into a homer against the California Angels despite the warning of coach Pete Reiser.

"He's scrappy and hitting the ball well," Durocher says of "Sweet Lou," who has played for 13 teams in the past 17 seasons.

Solid hitting Billy Williams, .278 with 28 homers last year, will be in left. Ted Savage appears to have the edge on Byron Browne and Al Spangler as the fourth outfielder.

The Cubs' pennant chances depend heavily upon the performances of Holtzman, Jenkins, Nye and Niekro. Williams, Banks, Santo and Phillips must hit and stay healthy. Biggest weakness is lack of a reliable bullpen.

Views Playoffs As Brand New Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A player doesn't get tired early in a season, and San Francisco's Jeff Mullins appears about as fresh as one can get.

Mullins scored 29 points last Friday in sparking San Francisco over St. Louis in the first game of the National Basketball Association Western Division semifinals, and said the playoffs are just like a new season.

Tuesday night he did it again —scoring 33 points as the Warriors beat St. Louis 124-109 to take a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

It was the only NBA action of the night.

In the American Basketball Association playoffs, Dallas eliminated Houston 3-0 in the best-of-5 Western Division semifinals by winning 116-103, New Orleans drubbed Denver 130-104, Pittsburgh topped Indiana 121-108 and Kentucky edged Minnesota 100-95.

Dick Snyder came off the St. Louis bench and hit his first five shots, pulling the Hawks to within 43-42. But then Mullins hit two shots and Bob Warlick two more and the Warriors moved to a 60-54 halftime lead and never were threatened thereafter.

Fred Hetzel and Clyde Lee each added 19 and Rudy LaRusso 18 for San Francisco. Zelmo Beaty, Lenny Wilkens and Lou Hudson each scored 21 for St. Louis.

Dallas raced to a 19-point halftime lead and then coasted to its third straight playoff victory over Houston. John Beasley poured in 31 points, Maurice McHartley 24 and four other players hit double figures for Dallas. Art Becker scored 26 and Guy Manning 25 for Houston.

Dallas now will play the winner of the New Orleans series which opened with New Orleans' one-sided victory.

Five-foot-9 Larry Brown scored 31 points, his high for the season, in pacing New Orleans, which built up a 14-point halftime margin. Wayne Hightower led Denver with 28.

Pittsburgh's Art Heyman drove through the Indiana defense for 32 points in leading the Pipers to a 2-0 lead over Indiana in their Eastern Division semifinal series.

With Pittsburgh ace Connie Hawkins and playmaker Charlie Williams on the bench with five fouls each, Indiana cut the Pipers' lead from 92-75 to 94-88 in the fourth quarter. But then Hawkins and Williams returned and Pittsburgh went on a 14-5 tear to put the game out of reach.

Chico Vaughn added 24 points and Hawkins 21 for the Pipers. Fred Lewis paced Indiana with 21.

In the other Eastern semifinal, Kentucky rallied in the final nine minutes to even its set with Minnesota at 1-1.

Louie Dampier tied it for Kentucky at 94-94 with 1:30 left, and then Randy Mahaffey put the Colonels ahead to stay at 96-94.

Dampier led Kentucky with 24 points, and Mahaffey contributed 21. Gary Keller topped Minnesota with 16.

Says Open Tennis Not Desirable

NEW YORK (AP) — Popular Manuel Santana of Spain, rated by many as the world's top amateur player, added a poignant dissent today to the question of open tennis.

"Open tennis will be tough on the kids," he said. "For that reason, I hate to see it come.

"Open tennis will be beautiful to watch. People will see the best players. I have no worries. I welcome the challenge to play against the pros.

"But the kids—they will be left out in the cold. I love tennis. I like kids. I was one of them once."

The 29-year-old Santana, a 10-year Davis Cup veteran plays America's Arthur Ashe tonight in the feature quarter-final match of the Garden Challenge Cup International Tennis Tournament.

Two men's and two women's matches are on the card at Madison Square Garden, leaving until Thursday the remaining quarter-final matches.

Other matches tonight send Clark Graebner of New York against Yugoslavia's young Zeljko Franulovic; second-seeded Ann Haydon Jones of England against Francoise Durr of France and Judy Tegart of Australia against Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif.

Billie Jean King of Berkeley, Calif., queen of women's tennis, plays Winnie Shaw of Scotland Thursday. Mrs. King, who will sign a fat pro contract next week, needed only 37 minutes to dispose of Elena Subirats of Mexico 6-0, 6-2.

Both top-seeded favorites had their anxious moments in Tuesday night's matches before a crowd of 5,000 at the new Garden.

Roy Emerson of Australia, No. 1, with a $100,000 pro contract in the offing, dropped the first set to Jim Osborne of Australia but fought back for a 3-6, 9-7, 6-2 victory. Santana pulled out a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 triumph over Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill.

Ashe prepared for his Santana meeting by beating hard-hitting Mike Sangster of England 8-6, 6-3. Graebner whipped fellow New Yorker Gene Scott 6-3, 4-6, 6-4.

Tigers Lose Practice Game To Columbia

Starting the 1966 baseball season off under the direction of Coach "Skip" Schulz and assistant Coach Wes Sanders, Smith-Cotton was defeated 2-0 in a practice game with Columbia in Sedalia. The game was called off after four and a half innings of play due to lack of light.

No runs were scored until the top of the inning, when Columbia scored two.

Coach Schulz remarked, "We have a good ball club but we made a lot of mental as well as physical errors. Columbia has two real good pitchers. Pete Greene did well for S-C.

"I am trying to get a practice game with Northwest before our double-header with Glendale and Hillcrest of Springfield on Saturday, April 6."

Spokane Will Meet Armed Forces Team

DENVER (AP) — A well-conditioned Armed Forces All-Stars team and a quick, spunky Spokane, Wash., quintet will meet tonight in the finals of the 61st annual AAU Basketball Tournament.

The All-Stars gained the finals by shocking defending champion Akron, Ohio, 78-65 Tuesday night. Spokane eliminated San Francisco 81-74 in the other semifinal match.

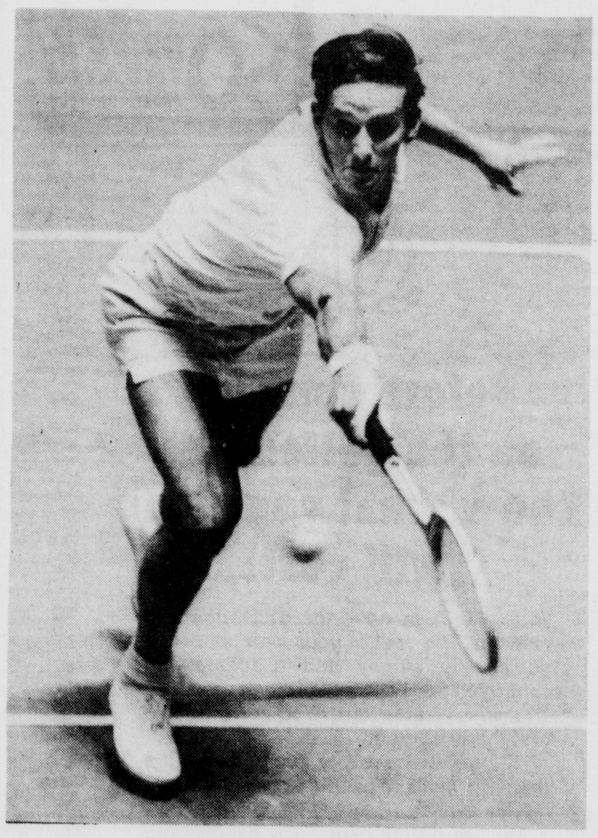
Ryun Scheduled To See a Doctor

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Kansas miler Jim Ryun has an appointment with the doctor today about a strained hamstring muscle in his left leg suffered during a workout Tuesday.

The Topeka, Kan., orthopedic specialist, Dr. Bernard Joyce, suggested that Ryun be kept in the hospital overnight, and that the leg be packed in ice to reduce swelling.

Ryun said he felt a twinge in the leg and pulled off the track at the end of his 110-yard stint in the 440 relays workout.

He holds the world record in the mile at 3:51.1, and in the 1,500 meters at 3:33.1.



The Stretch

Roy Emerson, Australia, stretches to make a return during his match against Hawaii's Jim Osborne in the First Annual International Tennis Tournament at Madison Square Garden in New York. Emerson won, 3-6, 9-7, 6-2. (UPI)

Coach Foster McGuire's golf and tennis teams of Smith-Cotton High School met Marshall Tuesday afternoon in the first matches of the season at Elm Hills Public Golf Course and the Liberty Park Tennis Courts.

Golf action saw Sedalians tying Marshall with a score of 3½-3½, as a point was awarded to the winner of each flight as well as to the medalist of the day. Keith Yount of Smith-Cotton captured medalist honors with an 18-hole score of 70, while George Dugan, also of S-C, followed closely with a 74. Low man for Marshall was Alexander with a 75 for 18 holes.

In boys' tennis, only one win was captured by Sedalia, as John Ball, S-C sophomore, defeated Shaver of Marshall with a score of 10-4, in singles play.

Banquets Mark End Of Season

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — A smashing finish is being prepared for one of the most controversial and bitterly fought seasons in top ski-racing competition. For the Americans it was one of their poorest seasons.

At Heavenly Valley in the snowy Sierra and in San Francisco 200 miles away, parties and banquets will mark the 19th and last of the 1967-68 World Cup Races from April 5 to 7.

Some 150 of the world's best skiers will race slalom and giant slaloms down the face of Heavenly Valley, near the glittering gaming dens just over the Nevada state line.

Western ski fans are getting ready for a major disappointment if the French phenom, Jean-Claude Killy, fails to show up for the World Cup finale. At Sun Valley, Idaho, last weekend, after France, thanks to Killy, won the American International team meet, Killy said he might enter only the Rossland, B.C., World Cup contest this weekend and stay away from Heavenly Valley.

That's how sure the Olympic triple gold medalist is that he has the men's cup locked up for the second straight year. Killy, who counts his victories by tenths and hundredths of a second, is reputed to ski only as quick as he has to for a victory.

If Killy doesn't show up in California, it would save Austrian downhiller Karl Schranz the trouble of ignoring Le Superman. Schranz contends Killy stole the Olympic men's slalom gold medal from him. Schranz was disqualified for missing two gates.

A racing star certain to show is Canadian darling Nancy "Tiger" Greene, who is trying for her second consecutive World Cup women's crown. She's ahead so far but is under threat from Annie Famose and Isabelle Mir of France.

Once again the Americans are being all but shut out by the French. But no one can take away the sparkle of the tremendous comeback by 1964 Olympic medalist Bill Kidd, 24, of Stowe, Vt.

Kidd, whose beautiful style and technical ability on the snow have made him the most admired American racer, has been plagued by assorted wrenching accidents and broken limbs. But he shrugged all that off at Aspen, Colo., recently by winning the men's slalom four places ahead of Killy.

Her Piano In a Bad Way; Needs Refinishing Advice

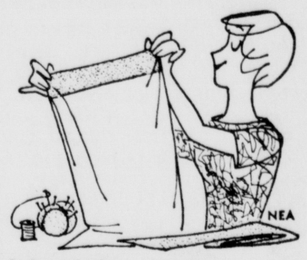
By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We have purchased a good used piano but it has a bad finish. Must we strip off the old varnish and restain it or can we just sand and paint it with lacquer or enamel? We will welcome advice from any readers of your informative column.—MR. AND MRS. M.

DEAR POLLY—All homemakers know that table linens become wrinkled when stored in a drawer. I solved this problem by purchasing a hanger that has five swing-away bars that lock securely in place. These are made for slacks and other such garments but I hang my linens on the bars and they never become wrinkled. The hanger can be hung on a closet door where it takes up little space.—NELLE

DEAR POLLY—An easy, inexpensive way to put colored borders on plain sheets and pillowcases is to apply the wide, colored hem binding used for clothing. I use the wide width and the edges are already folded under so it is easy to stitch on. This really looks pretty.—PAT



DEAR POLLY—In the past when using spray paint I could not avoid getting the paint under my fingernail while I held the nozzle down. I found that if you place the small plastic cover from the nozzle over the index finger this will prevent any paint getting on the fingers and under the fingernail from which it is so difficult to remove. Also this gives a steadier, firmer pressure on the spray nozzle.—GRACE

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for Lorena who wanted to know how to remove cold cream marks left on her pillowcases. I had the same trouble and the following works for me. Rub the spots with hair shampoo, let set awhile and then wash as usual.—ANN

DEAR GIRLS—Ann's suggestion reminded me of a budget trip to Europe one of my sons once took and he and his companions laundered all their drip-dry clothes with liquid hair shampoo that came in a plastic tube.—POLLY

Back to Berlin

Aryan and Owens

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The story of Jesse Owens breaking three Olympic records and winning four gold medals in the 1936 Games is as tense, as touching, as thrilling today as it was then. The nationally televised documentary, "Jesse Owens Returns to Berlin," proves it again.

The setting for Owens' extraordinary feat was awesome. Nazi leaders had boasted of Aryan superiority and disparaged the American team and its "black auxiliaries." In the midst of goose-stepping military parades and throngs, arms thrust forward, booming "Heil Hitler," the Games resembled Armageddon.

It transcended pure sport and had an almost unreal aura of a morality play, fairy tale and soap opera lumped together.

A lesser-known aspect of the unfolding drama was the camaraderie developed between Owens and blond Lutz Long, Germany's top broad jumper. The pair continued their friendship through correspondence until the Nazis attacked Poland in September, 1939.

Long was killed in Africa in 1943. He was serving under Rommel. Owens returned to Germany in 1951 and met Long's widow and 10-year-old son, Kai. ("I recognized the boy immediately," said Owens. "He looked exactly like his father.") Owens and Kai struck up a correspondence, too, that continues to this day. "He's not a track man," said Owens. "He's a golfer, like I am now."

When Owens went back to Berlin recently to film the documentary, he met Kai again. A sequence in the film shows Owens telling the young man about that Olympic experience. There is also a shot of Kai and Owens resting on their stomachs in the grass of what was called the Reich Sports Field Stadium, just as Lutz and Jesse had been photographed 32 years before. The stadium was untouched by Allied bombing.

In 1936, the German team lived apart from the rest of the athletes in the Olympic Village. One day before the Games began, Long came to the Village to meet Owens, 22-year-old sprinter and broad jumper who already had an international reputation. Owens had never heard of Lutz Long.

Jesse Owens
32 Years Later

Long spoke adequate English, and the two became close pals. A Mexican broad jumper, whose name Owens has forgotten, became friendly with them. The three often practiced together and helped each other.

"This Mexican fellow had never jumped more than 22 feet," said Owens. "Lutz and I were jumping 24 and 25 feet regularly. Qualifying was 23-5½. We worked with him and he made the semifinals."

Owens was favored to win that event easily. But, if not for Long, he might not even have qualified.

Each contestant was allotted three jumps in the morning trials. Wearing his sweatsuit, Owens fouled on the first try. He discarded the sweatsuit on the second attempt, but fouled again. ("Now I was ready to take off everything else," he said.) At this point, Long came up to him and said:

"Jesse, you should be able to qualify with your eyes closed. Why don't you draw a line a few inches back of the board and aim at making your take-off from there? You'll be sure not to foul, and you certainly ought to jump far enough to qualify."

Owens did so and qualified with nearly a foot to spare. The finals were held the same afternoon. Long was Owens' stiffest competition. On his second jump, Owens set an Olympic record, 25-9¾. Incredibly, in that world of fractions, Long, in his fifth—of six—jumps, tied Owens. The black American bettered the mark on his next try. On Long's final effort, he fouled. Owens, in his last try, catapulted 26-5¼, for a record that would hold up for 25 years.

As Owens lifted himself from the sawdust, Lutz, wearing black, ankle-length socks under his track shoes, bounded forward, embracing and slapping and congratulating him. A movie camera caught Hitler in his special box scowling with beetled eyebrows. His neck fidgeted as if his tie was too tight. Maybe that was why he broke custom and departed hastily without shaking the winner's hand.

"I've had many moments in the sun," said Owens, "but none compare to the one of having Lutz Long beside me on the winner's platform.

"We climbed down and walked side by side around the stadium, our sweatsuits tossed over our shoulders. Each section rose as one as we passed. There were 110,000 people standing and cheering when we entered the shadows under the stands."

Wage War May Start Over Hayes

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The first player salary war between the two major professional basketball leagues may develop over the signing of Elvin Hayes.

The San Diego Rockets have won the National Basketball Association draft rights to the Houston Cougar All-American and reportedly are ready to pay Hayes the price tag of $300,000 for three years which he has placed on himself.

The Houston Mavericks of the new American Basketball Association said Tuesday they are willing to offer Hayes $500,000 for the same period.

"If he isn't worth $750,000 to San Diego with their television contracts, he would be getting shortchanged," said Slater Martin, general manager and coach of the Houston team.

The 6-8 Hayes met privately at San Diego late Tuesday with Bob Breitbard, owner of the Rockets. Hayes was not available for comment following the meeting.

However, Breitbard said he hoped to sign Hayes before he returns to college.

"I'm interested in building a good basketball team, and Hayes is the man I need to do it," Breitbard said.

Hayes had indicated he would rather play in the NBA. However, this was prior to the Houston salary announcement.

"They (San Diego) have a young team and the only place for them to go is up," Hayes said earlier. "I think I can be as great an asset to them as they can be to me. If they meet my price I'm ready to sign."

The ABA draft will not be held until April 8 but the Mavericks announced two weeks ago they had obtained the league's negotiation rights for Hayes.

Hayes can accept the Houston offer as the two leagues do not have a working agreement under which they forbid any player from seeking the best possible contract.

Infraction Did Not Go Into Books

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don't bother to look in the scoring and penalty summaries for a hooking infraction against Eddie Joyal of Los Angeles. As far as the scorer's concerned, it never happened in the Kings' National Hockey League game against the Pittsburgh Penguins Tuesday night.

The penalty that was called and never served helped Pittsburgh edge Los Angeles 2-1 in the only game scheduled. The setback dimmed the Kings' hopes for a first-place finish in the West Division.

And the victory brightened Pittsburgh's chances of catching fourth-place St. Louis and snaring the last West Division berth for the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Los Angeles, with two games left, remained tied with Philadelphia for the division lead. The Flyers have four games remaining.

Pittsburgh, with three games to go, is three points behind the Blues, who have four to play.

Midway in the first period, with the game still scoreless, a penalty was signaled by referee Bob Sloan against Joyal. But with Pittsburgh controlling the puck, goalie Les Binkley of the Penguins raced off the ice and was replaced by a sixth skater as the action continued.

Finally, during a scramble in front of King goalie Terry Sawchuk, the Penguins' Earl Ingarfield slammed the puck into the Los Angeles goal. The sixth man, Wayne Hicks, along with Leo Boivin, picked up an assist. With the tally, the penalty against Joyal was nullified.

Barriers Disappear With Youths

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bobby Mitchell, Washington Redskins halfback, says professional athletes face no color barriers when they talk to youngsters living in the slums.

"There is no antagonism from the hard-core youngster in the ghetto when an athlete comes to talk to him—it doesn't make any difference whether you send Jurgensen, Howard or Mitchell," he said. "These kids don't see any color."

He referred to Redskins quarterback Sonny Jurgensen and Washington Senators outfielder Frank Howard—white players in addition to himself, a Negro.

Mitchell said being a well-known athlete has advantages when talking to the youngsters about their problems.

"They tell me things that they would snowball you about," Mitchell told the House Republican Urban Affairs Task Force Tuesday.

He said, however, he sometimes runs into difficulties with a youngster who would like to be a leader of a gang and doesn't like the attention Mitchell is receiving from the others.

"He'll pass the word that Mitchell is from the white structure and try to put me down," Mitchell said. "But the other youngsters usually see through him."

Mitchell spent most of his time with the lawmakers discussing the National Negro Industrial and Economic Union.

The organization, founded in 1966 by former Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown, is designed to help private business development in slum areas. Mitchell is a co-founder and director of the Union which recently received a $520,000 Ford Foundation grant.

Five Cities Are Seeking Tournament

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five cities will petition the tournament site inspection committee of the American Bowling Congress today hoping to attract the tourney in 1972 or later.

Denver, Colo.; Norfolk, Va.; Long Beach, Calif.; Syracuse, N.Y., and Fort Wayne, Ind., are slated to bid for the tourney site and it is reported Des Moines, Iowa, is preparing a presentation.

The ABC Tournament is awarded three years in advance. Madison, Wis., will host the 1969 event and Knoxville, Tenn., will be the site in 1970.

Detroit is the only bidder for the 1971 tournament but the ABC has withheld final action pending a study of cost factors in the Motor City. Detroit has hosted the ABC in 1910, 1932, 1940, 1948, and 1961.

If their bids are successful, Denver, Norfolk and Long Beach will make their ABC debuts. Syracuse attracted the tournament in 1935 and 1958 and Fort Wayne was the ABC site in 1955.

AP Photographer Is Wounded 2nd Time

SAIGON (AP) — Associated Press photographer Al Chang, 43, was wounded today for the second time in his six years of covering the Vietnam war.

A piece of shrapnel hit Chang in the chest when the Viet Cong fired on an armored personnel carrier he was riding as U.S. 25th Division infantrymen attacked a Viet Cong hamlet 28 miles northwest of Saigon.

He was walking around later and was believed not seriously injured.

In December 1965, Chang was knocked unconscious by a bullet in his head but came to 40 minutes later and took more photographs after medics removed the bullet and dressed the wound.

Volunteers Forced To Fight Fire

HIGH RIDGE, Mo. (AP) — The volunteer High Ridge fire department was forced by an angry crowd armed with guns and clubs to put out a fire Tuesday night, an assistant fire chief said.

Robert Ellison, assistant chief, said his men had no chance to determine whether the house exhibited the required $7 fire protection tag. He estimated 75 persons in the crowd.

"We'll throw you right into the flames if you don't put it out," Ellison said he was told. "They even grabbed me and grabbed the hose out of my hands," he said.

The burning home was five houses away from a residence the firemen allowed to burn March 18 because it was untagged. They are not permitted to fight a fire at a home without a tag, unless human life is at stake, Ellison explained.

He said the state highway patrol and Jefferson County sheriff's officers were called when the mob gathered. High Ridge is a community of about 260 persons 35 miles southwest of St. Louis. The police stood by while the firemen fought the fire. There was no violence.

Earlier Tuesday, firemen put out a blaze in an unprotected home because a woman and child were in danger. The child was overcome by smoke, and the mother suffered cuts.

Linked With Demonstrations

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The son of a Polish government official has been arrested and accused of organizing a recent student demonstration for greater freedom, a Warsaw newspaper reports.

In addition, two more members of the faculty of Warsaw University, one a prominent former diplomat, have been listed with those linked to the unrest as the government continued its campaign to pin the blame for student demonstrations on intellectuals and Zionists.

The newspaper Kurier Polski said Tuesday that Andrzej Neumark, son of the director of the cabinet in the Culture Ministry, had organized a demonstration at Warsaw Medical School March 11.

The newspaper criticized the youth's father, Stanislaw Neumark, saying he continuously fought with iis subordinates at the Culture Ministry.

Prof. Juliusz Katz-Suchy and Assistant Prof. Krzysztof Pomian of Warsaw University were named with a number of others who had been accused previously of having encouraged revionist, oppositionist thinking among students.

Six professors and assistants were purged from the university staff Monday.

Twelve persons have been purged by the government since the student demonstrations began March 8. Ten of them are believed to be Jews.

Five of those purged lost their government posts after their sons and daughters were accused of being leaders of the student demonstrations.

In another development, the state-controlled newspaper Zycie Warszawy published Tuesday a 15-point declaration by student demonstrators of human rights violations by the Communist regime.

But the newspaper included a government rebuttal to each of the students' points, which amounted to an expression of general dissatisfaction with overbearing government controls.

In Berlin, Edward Holmes, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a Slavic language student in Krakow, Poland for the past 6½ months, said he had been questioned by Polish police off and on for 48 hours after his arrest last Thursday night before he was escorted to the German border and expelled Sunday.

He said he was accused of improper behavior at a student demonstration.

But he added: "I did nothing but look, along with everyone else that was there."

In Ranks

Airman First Class Sammie L. Malone, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Malone of Warrensburg, is a member of an organization which has earned the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Airman Malone, a jet aircraft mechanic in the Aerospace Defense Command's 57th Fighter Intercepter Squadron at Keflavik Airport, Iceland, will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

The unit was cited for achieving an exceptionally meritorious rating from April, 1966 through May, 1967.

Protestant Unity Advances Rapidly

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Church leaders see signs that unity among Protestants is moving ahead of formal church authorization for it.

"While we're talking about it, it's happening," one theologian remarked.

The point was brought out repeatedly as the Consultation on Church Union today sought to map procedures for merging 10 American Protestant denominations with a total of 25.5-million members into a single church.

Declaring that time has run out for long-term, gradual steps in the face of the swift changes, the Rev. Dr. George Johnston, dean of United Theological College, Montreal, told the meeting: "The time for union was the day before yesterday."

The Rev. Dr. James I. McCord, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, sounded a similar note, citing the rise of a "radical, practical Christianity" in which various believers spurned church divisions to join in united action.

"We stand at a crucial juncture not in the sense of whether we go on or not, but in the sense of whether we can be creative enough to reflect what is already happening in Christianity today," he said.

A study report presented here also described widespread and increasing interdenominational operations in many matters, at national as well as local levels, despite the continued official separation of the churches.

"The preservation of denominational identity in all situations is no longer taken for granted as normal," the report said.

The consultation's seventh annual meeting opened Monday, involving delegations from the participating denominations as well as observers from about 20 other churches, including Roman Catholicism.

Participants already have agreed on principles of faith and order, allowing wide diversity in worship forms, but now are trying to work out the mechanics of linking up their different organizational structures.

A panel of lawyers, headed by Oliver Schroeder of Cleveland's Western Reserve University, said there are no legal barriers to the project.

He said that in any pioneering venture, deed must procede the technical legalism and added: "What we're doing in outer space is not yet legally defined, but if we had waited until it was we'd still be on the launching paid."

Churches involved in the consultation are Methodist, Episcopal, United Presbyterian, Presbyterian U.S., Disciples, United Church of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren, African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal.

Porter's Music Has Good Flavor

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Transition of "Kiss Me, Kate" from stage to television did not help the plot much, but Cole Porter's witty lyrics and catchy tunes have stood up well over the years.

The 90-minute adaptation was presented Monday night on ABC, and was an eye-filling treat, with stunning sets and gay, colorful costumes.

The problem for television was the play-within-a-play device, moving back and forth between musical comedy and Shakespeare.

Robert Goulet in hose and doublet and wearing crepe mustachios and Van Dyke beard, swashbuckled around in his character of suitor and in one out-of-place flashback made a valiant effort at some broad comedy. As usual, he seemed most comfortable when he was singing.

Carol Lawrence, in her dual role of divorced wife of the star and Kate of the inner play, sang nicely and danced beautifully. While she played out the shrew scenes enthusiastically, she was not particularly convincing.

Michael Callan, costar of last season's "Occasional Wife" series, revealed some impressive song-and-dance talents when he was teamed with Jessica Walter as the second pair of star-crossed lovers. As a matter of fact, one of the disappointments of the show was the scarcity of dance numbers when there were dancers of the stature of Miss Lawrence and Callan around.

Miss Walter, as the funny naive golddigger, had the meatiest woman's part in the show and two of the most amusing songs. She gave it an innocent, girl-next-door reading and failed to make the most of it.

Marty Ingels and Jules Munshin were cast as a pair of fumbling comedy gangsters, an old device, and not particularly amusing.

Contemporary touches were injected in the 20-year-old book.

Continued Expedition

The Plaisted Snowmobile Expedition to the North Pole is moving again after being halted for five days due to blowing snow and fog. Under fair skies in 40 degree below-zero cold the expedition moved toward its final destination, the North Pole some 400 miles away. Three members of the six-man team are shown as they cross over one of the massive pressure ridges in the Arctic ice cap. (UPI)

Seize Cigarettes

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania confiscated more than 50,000 packs of contraband cigarettes last year and distributed them to smokers in the commonwealth's 19 mental hospitals. The cigarettes were seized from persons smuggling them into Pennsylvania from states with lower taxes. The state raised the tax on a pack from 8 to 13 cents last year.

May Ask Injunction On Movie's Title

MESCALERO, N.M. (AP) — The president of the National Congress of Indians says he will seek a court injunction to prevent a proposed movie from bearing the title, "Nobody Loves a Drunken Indian."

"I believe the American Indian has a rather exciting story to tell," said Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apaches, "a story pertaining to his ability to solve his own problems and take hold of his own future. . .It's a much more exciting theme than the old Western in my opinion."

But Albuquerque author Max Evans, a friend of Clair Huffaker who is the writer of the screenplay, said the movie "is all in favor of the Indians and tells how they were taken for a ride by the white man."

Doctors Fight a Different War

By JOHN WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

WITH THE MARINES IN VIETNAM (AP) — Between shell explosions, the pounding of GI jungle boots could be heard clearly on the boardwalk outside the battered sandbag bunker.

A corpsman whipped aside the blanket over the doorway.

"Doc, doc. There's more wounded coming in. Lots more."

Sitting around a makeshift table in blood-stained fatigues and flak vests, the four doctors looked up from their C-ration lunch, squared the steel helmets and raced through the door. They appeared oblivious to nearby exploding mortar shells.

It was a 60-yard dash to the underground bunker of Charlie Med. And if the sprint wasn't up to cinder track standards, it wasn't far off.

At the door of the bunker near the center of a heavily shelled area held by the Marines, the doctors had to stop and then merge with the stream of stretchers and walking wounded flowing into the underground room.

Once below, they quickly plunged into the second battle of the war in Vietnam, the battle to save lives.

Charlie Med is C Company, 3rd Marine Medical Battalion. More than 1,000 men destined to be evacuated to rear area hospitals have flowed through Charlie Med's rustic facilities in six weeks.

Inside the bunker, broken and ripped Marine bodies filled the room. The most critical were on stretchers atop metal saw horses. Corpsmen moved across the floor like broken-field runners.

Some dropped to the floor and scrambled on hands and knees when something was needed in the raised stretcher area. The room was too cramped to go around the stretchers.

"Get I-V (intravenous fluid) going on that man immediately," said Dr. (Lt.) James O. Finnegan, 29, of Philadelphia, Pa. "He'll need blood as soon as possible.

"No morphine for this man. Not with that wound," said Dr. (Lt.) Edward M. Feldman, 27, of Fores Hills, N.Y., noting that morphine lowers the blood pressure.

The faces of many of the wounded registered the shock that at last it was their turn to catch the steel fragments.

A Marine aircraft control operator with part of his jaw blasted away by a shell fragment looked up from his stretcher and said: "I'm so scared, sir. Is it all right if I cry?"

Dr. (Lt.) Don Magillian, 28, of Brooklyn, N.Y., looked at the badly wounded man and said: "I don't have any medicine to stop it. Go right ahead."

At another litter, Dr. (Lt.) Joseph W. Wolfe, 26, of Rutledge, Tenn., pushed a plastic breathing tube down the throat of a man in danger of drowning in his own blood. Wolfe snapped at a corpsman to start up the suction machine which would clear the man's mouth of blood. The corpsman was already ahead of the order, scooting across the dusty floor for the machine and its electric plug.

"More coming in," called a medic through the doorway.

"Take them over to the tent," Finnegan said with reluctance. The tent was surrounded by sandbags but had no protective overhead cover. It was considered extremely dangerous for patients and doctors alike.

As quickly as they could be patched up, the Marines were placed in stretchers four high by ropes and wooden pegs on the wall.

"Lightning Flash, Lightning Flash. This is Marmalade," a radio operator called to the helicopter control room. "We've got four alphas (critically wounded), five bravos (seriously wounded) and seven charlies (less seriously wounded but in need of rear area treatment and surgery)."

"All right, Marmalade," the call came back. "Get 'em ready. We'll have a chopper there in zero five (five minutes)."

"All right, move, move, move," shouted Finnegan, head of the medical team. "Finish them up. We can get them out now."

Sometimes there are delays of up to many hours because of bad weather and the shortage of helicopters. Finnegan didn't want to miss any chances.

A series of Communist artillery rounds hit close to the medical bunker. One shell knocked out Charlie Med's lights. Several rocked the building. A nearby ammunition cache exploded, blasting open the rear door and knocking down an improvised operating table.

Marines are noted for their imaginative swearing. But such words as God and Jesus are not taken in vain at Charlie Med. They are a call, a prayer, a plea.

The wounded in the bunker knew that one of the most dangerous times for them still lay ahead, even if the bunker escaped a big rocket or artillery shell. To get aboard the helicopter they would have to be carried in the open and the choppers are called "mortar magnets" because of the shell fire they draw.

Charlie Med's bunker is the equivalent of a hospital's emergency ward. "But it's like working in a city where a jet airliner crashes into a bus day after day after day. We have to sort out the pieces," Wolfe said.

Sorting is one of Charlie Med's major chores, deciding how badly a man is hurt. If he is critical he gets priority treatment and evacuation while the others wait.

The medical unit's main job is to stabilize the wounded, get them ready and strong enough for evacuation to rear area hospitals where surgeons and doctors can make permanent patches. Charlie Med is just a way station.

Thanks to helicopters, U.S. troops in Vietnam enjoy a far better chance of surviving than men hit in any previous war.

"Strangely enough, when the weather is good and choppers are available, they get to the operating room as fast or faster than if they were coming out of a stateside emergency room," Wolfe said.

"If we get them alive, and they don't have a serious head or heart wound, we can usually save them," Finnegan said.

Civilian doctors used to shiny chrome and spotless white surroundings might be startled if they were suddenly thrust into life inside Charlie Med's bunker.

Even underground, all the men wear flak vests and helmets against the chance that a shell may penetrate the bunker and explode. Most of the doctors and medics wear pistols while they work.

Their clothes are filthy and splotched with dried blood. Finnegan's ripped fatigue pants were held together with surgical tape turned black and gray by dirt.

No attempt is made to scrub the floor or stretchers. Many of the latter had large reddish brown circles of dried blood on them. Some of Charlie Med's men don't shave for days at a time because of the shortage of water.

Instruments and some medicines are stored in empty howitzer shell cases.

Resting between shellings and casualties, Finnegan said:

"At this stage the dirt isn't all that important. The medics that bandaged the wound originally often covered muddy and dirt-caked wounds. We clean them out a little bit while we stabilize them, but the real cleaning like the real surgery is done at the rear. Our biggest job is to get them to the rear alive."

A muscular Marine with part of one leg gone and the foot of his other badly mangled talked quietly from his stretcher.

"Yeah, I'm an athlete, doc. Had a wrestling scholarship to Maryland."

The scholarship will never be exercised.

While raising the stump to bandage it, one corpsman tried to shield the sight from the wounded man.

"Aw, I've already seen my leg, so don't worry about that. I know it's gone."

By now the crunch is on again at Charlie Med. There is scant room to move.

"Doc, doc. There's more coming on the helicopters. Lots more," comes the call from the doorway.

SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland marks his 54th birthday today. He planned to spend the day in his office with a full schedule of appointments.

The general becomes U.S. Army chief of staff in early July after better than four years in Vietnam. His successor here has not yet been named.

NEW YORK (AP) — Folk singer Joan Baez and David V. Harris, former Stanford University student-body president and a draft resister, obtained a marriage license Monday.

Miss Baez, 27, and Harris, 22, did not disclose when or where they plan to marry but she said a news conference would be held at noon Wednesday in New York.

The couple are currently on a nationwide tour of college campuses speaking against the war in Vietnam. Both recently served jail terms for their part in antiwar demonstrations in Oakland, Calif.

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her son, John Jr., arrived back in New York Monday night after a six-day skiing vacation in Vail, Colo. Her daughter, Caroline, was not with her.

PARIS (AP) — Msgr. Francois Marty, archbishop of Reims, has been named archbishop of Paris by Pope Paul VI, it was announced here today.

Msgr. Marty replaces Pierre Cardinal Veuillot, who died last month.

The new Paris archbishop, who is 63, was born into a family of farmers and was ordained as a priest in 1930.

FIERY PULPIT

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP)— Southern Baptist preachers are sometimes urged to "build a fire in the pulpit"—meaning to put some warmth into their preaching.

Members of the Cooper Avenue Baptist Church here pondered the implications of the advice, after a fire destroyed the rear portion of their church, the fire report noting the blaze apparently "started behind the pulpit."

The 8 hour loaf

A step by step guide to making Colonial Bread.

1st hour. Colonial bakers make dough (we call it "sponge"). Put it to bed. Yeast starts to work.

2nd hour. Sponge resting comfortably.

3rd hour. Sponge sound asleep. Colonial bakers very much awake.

4th hour. Sponge yawns a couple of times, turns over.

5th hour. Sponge still snoozing. The Army was never like this.

6th hour. Reveille! Sponge is finally set. We give it good beating. Hurts us more than it does the dough (now we call it that). We give the poor dear 30 minutes to calm down, then roll into strips. Hand-twist each pair of strips into single loaf. Place in pre-heated pan to avoid sudden chill.

7th hour. Dough basks in tropic temperatures while it rises. Twist tightens, trapped air is squeezed out, tiny oval bubbles are formed that mark texture of great bread. A loaf made this way bakes more evenly, tastes even better. We place in the oven, give bread slow-motion roller coaster ride through oven.

8th hour. Cool bread slowly. Place gently in Colonial trucks. Wave fond farewell.

All in all, we take about 3 hours more than we really have to to make each loaf of Colonial Bread. But good things take a little longer.

Why doesn't everybody make bread this way?

The News In Brief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP) — Union leaders came to argue against the Labor government's proposed tough wage curbs and Chancellor Roy Jenkins warned Monday of "hell around the corner" if his budget measures fail.

Sources said Jenkins warned that if the British economy were allowed to grow at a rate of 6 per cent, as the unions ask, the home economy would soak up vital export goods—ruining efforts for a $1.2 billion trade surplus, causing a collapse of world trade and leaving 2.5 million Britons unemployed.

But leaders of the Trades Union Congress complained to Jenkins, Prime Minister Harold Wilson and other officials that the cost of living would rise by about 5½ per cent while wages would be held under 3½ per cent.

ROME (AP) — Outlaws on the island of Sardinia are demanding 500 million lire—$800,000—or they say five North Sardinian landowners, to be chosen at random, will be slain.

Although the threat, in a letter to a Sardinian newspaper, may be a grim joke, police and fearful Sardinians are taking it seriously.

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Eisaku Sato and other government leaders urged today that the new U.S. military hospital at Oji for Vietnam war casualties be moved because of opposition from local residents.

Left-wing groups have staged violent demonsrations in recent weeks at Oji, near Tokyo, saying bars and cabarets would spring up around the hospital and corrupt the town's morals. They also say there would be an epidemic hazard to the community.

LONDON (AP) — "You'd be surprised how many kinky people want kinky things," said an official of Sothebys auction house.

Various buyers had just plunked down a total of $16,204 Monday for headsmen's axes, branding irons, racks, tongue tearers and other devices designed for torture or drawnout death.

An unidentified German private museum paid $4,800 for a 300-year-old "Iron Maiden," a device shaped like a girl. It has a spiked door which closes the victim inside, where he drops through a trapdoor into a deep well.

For $408, one chap who insisted on being nameless went off with a torture chair used to make women admit they were witches.

The collection from an 11th century Nuernberg castle was sold to Sothebys from the estate of Henry Walters of Baltimore, Md.

Language Teacher Comes to Marshall

Mrs. Richard Steging of Marshall, who has been employed by the board of education at Sweet Springs to teach Spanish and English next year in the high school, will graduate in August from Missouri Valley College with a B. A. degree in Spanish.

Mrs. Steging graduated from the Moberly High School as salutatorian of her graduating class in 1964. She has attended college at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge La., the University of Missouri at Kansas City, and Missouri Valley College. Her husband, a graduate of Missouri Valley College, is a staff writer for the Democrat News in Marshall.

LONER, David Pile of Sheffield, England, designed and built a boat which he plans to enter in this year's one-man trans-Atlantic race. Built over a two-year period, boat's cost will run about $1,800.

Small Disaster

With evidence of an earlier kite disaster above him, a youngster cautiously tries to get his own ensnared kite away from a tree. The boy, an entrant in a downtown Chicago kite-flying contest, was "so ashamed" that he "flew right into the tree" that he refused to give his name. (UPI)

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Safety critic Ralph Nader charges the U.S. Bureau of Mines is not pressing high health and safety standards because "it is the captive of the coal mine operators."

Nader also accused United Mine Workers leadership of siding with coal mine operators against better preventive safety measures.

The Washington attorney, noted for his auto safety and meat inspection campaigns, made the charges Monday in a letter to Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall.

He urged a congressional inquiry into miner lung disease from coal dust and said the bureau has not urged coal dust control standards even though an estimated 100,000 miners suffer from the disease.

Nader charged the bureau meets regularly with coal mine operators and union officials before drafting recommendations to Congress.

The bureau denied the charges and the union issued a statement saying it has "led the fight for coal mine health and safety in spite of strong opposition at times from the coal industry and federal and state governments."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two South Carolina surgeons have reported a novel new technique for controlling weakened sections of a major abdominal blood vessel which can balloon and burst.

Encasing the aneurysms on the abdominal aorta in knitted cloth bags, they report, has slowed growth and prevented rupture in 31 of 37 patients.

The rupture of a large aneurysm on the main arterial blood pipeline from the heart can be fatal.

Doctors J. Manly Stallworth and Antonio Ramirez of the Medical College of South Carolina said Monday the knitted cloth reinforcement can be used when surgical repair of the artery is too dangerous to the patient.

Reds Oust Intellectuals

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish Communist regime fired seven intellectuals Monday in the biggest stroke of a purge following recent student demonstrations and street rioting.

The government ousted six teachers at Warsaw University on charges of implanting in their students political views contrary to the state's, the official news agency PAP reported.

There was no explanation for the ouster of the seventh intellectual, but he has been under fire for some time because of unorthodox Marxist views.

The regime now has ousted 12 persons, most of them Jews, since disturbances began on March 8, growing out of student unrest over the closing of a play which had some lines construed by censors as anti-Soviet.

The students have charged police brutality, accused the official press of lying and demanding more freedom. No new demonstrations have been reported since three Warsaw sit-ins ended Saturday.

The latest move was further evidence of the government's intention to root out so-called "reactionary elements, Zionists and demagogues" whom it accuses of starting the trouble.

Some Western observers feel, however, that the student unrest has given the party leadership an opportunity to strike back against opponents of its policy.

PAP said those dismissed at Warsaw University carried out their duties from "revisionist positions." They were Bronislaw Baczko, Leszek Kolakowski and Stefan Morawski, professors of philosophy; Zygmunt Bauman and Maria Hirszowicz, assistant professors of philosophy; and Wlodziemierz Brus, a professor of political economics.

Kolakowski, one of Poland's leading Marxist philosophers, has been in trouble with the regime for more than 10 years because he advocates a more moral, humane and idealistic basis for communism.

The seventh person dismissed Monday was Prof. Stefan Zolkiewski, as head of the social science department of the Polish Academy of Sciences.

Venice Sinking in Sea Of Sadness and Fumes

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Italy — (NEA) — Venetians will tell you that they now have to stoop when they enter their front doors because their beautiful city is slowly sinking into the mud.

The townspeople exaggerate the amount, no more than seven inches for the past 50 years, but the windows of many houses do seem too close to the ground for one's peace of mind.

In reality Venice is dying from other, more subtle causes. Like the clouds of yellow smog that come billowing in from industrial Mestre across the lagoon.

Even the famous bronze horses above the doors of St. Mark's are being eroded by the sulphuric acid in the air. These bronze horses once belonged to the Roman emperor, Nero, were looted by the Byzantines and later brought to Venice, where they were stolen by Napoleon. Having survived all of these disasters, it now looks as though they may succumb to Mestre's chemical plants.

As if this were not enough, there is the petroleum canal which is being dug in the lagoon in order to enable 70,000 ton oil tankers to dock at Marghera, opposite Venice. No one knows what effect this canal may have upon the delicate tidal balance in the lagoon.

But Venetians will tell you that since the oil interests started dredging this canal Venice has experienced the worst flood in its history. It did $60 million worth of damage.

Venice, the once-proud "Queen of the Adriatic," was founded in the 5th century by merchants seeking refuge from the barbarians on the Italian mainland. It is a city built entirely on piles, millions of tree trunks being driven into the mud flats to form its foundations. In reality, Venice is a series of islands connected by more than 400 bridges.

From the earliest times Venetians have learned how to live on the water. They do their courting, get married, go to work, and are buried by boat.

Unfortunately, the boats have something to do with the sad shape the city is in today. For the backwash of motor boats, or vaporetti as they are called, is slowly eating into the city's crumbling foundations.

Venice appears to be the victim of civic apathy, as well as the wind and sea, for as far back as 1962 the city adopted a plan to strengthen its sea walls. Nothing was done about it, however, for many years. The mayor now estimates that it will take $500 million to make Venice secure from the sea.

As for Venice's art treasures, not only are they in need of immediate restoration but to protect them properly heating and air-conditioning systems should be installed in the city's churches and palaces. The cost for doing this would be fantastic.

Meanwhile, Professor Guido Valcanover, the superintendent of fine arts here, is doing what he can to rescue the city's masterpieces from ruin.

Sensing perhaps that the city is doomed, Venetians have been flocking to Mestre on the mainland, and the population is now down to 125,000 as compared to 170,000 in 1951. In addition Venice has lost more than 350 businesses of one sort or another.

"My family prefers to put up with the noise, the smells, the ugliness of Mestre, where we know we are safe from flooding," a waiter, who commutes to work in Venice every day, explained to me.

But refugees from Venice must also put up with a Communist mayor, for Mestre is a red stronghold. Ironically, the village which borders it on its left is named Malcontenta.

THIS STATUE, like many of the art treasures of Venice, needs a facelifting after being exposed to industrial fumes and flood waters.

Girl Scout Notes

Mrs. Ruth Stafford, a member of the '99' international organization of women pilots in Kansas City, was the guest speaker at the second annual Cadette-Senior Day held March 9 at Wesley Methodist Church.

Mrs. Stafford gave a brief history of the '99' organization and outlined a six session program in flying for Senior Scouts.

A fashion show was held with Sally Lockett narrating for Lockett's and Sherry Fingland for Flower's. Models were Debbie Simon, Stephanie Fisher, Cindy Ellison, Patricia Baer, Annetta Grainger, Gwen Eisenstein, Beverly Lane, Barbara Richardson, Debby King, Susan Morton, Judy Johnson and Judy Sprinkles.

Instant fashions were another portion of the afternoon's entertainment. Small groups of girls were given a dress and fifteen minutes to change the dress into a contemporary style. Diane Weising narrated for models Rita Bechtel, Mary Lee Roseboom, Roberta Bird, Janis Phillips, Dana Smith, Debbie Wills, Kathy Dawson, Kathy Crystal, Mary Kate Smiley and Linda Belker.

The highlight of Girl Scout Week was the annual banquet held March 19 at the United Church of Christ in California. The banquet and meeting were attended by approximately 250 Girl Scouts, their families and friends.

The theme, "Let's Go Camping in '68," was cleverly carried out in table decorations of miniature camping scenes, including campfire, tents and a Day Camp Flag Ceremony. Miss Myrna Sherill, district advisor for the Heart of Missouri Girl Scout Council, was mistress of ceremonies.

The program opened with presentation of colors by the Brownies, Cadettes and Junior Scouts. A candlelighting ceremony followed using a candle to represent the three parts of the Girl Scout Promise and each of the ten Girl Scout Laws.

Three girls were invested in Troop 200, Cheryl Flippin, Karen Baughn and Linda Baughn.

During the Court of Awards, badges were presented to several girls of Troop 200 and Cadette Troop 98.

Certificates of appreciation were presented by Mrs. Gail Hughes to the Girl Scout leaders, assistant leaders, troop consultants, and troop organizer of the annual fund drive. Mrs. Hughes was then presented a gift from all the Girl Scout Troops.

COWS IN THE ROAD

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Cows were a hazard to vehicles on the Burnt Mill Road west of Pueblo. A 20-year-old motorist swerved his automobile to avoid a cow and the car landed in a ditch.

The driver suffered a head cut and an arm injury. An ambulance called to the site ran into a second cow, killing the animal, and inflicting $400 damage to the vehicle. Its driver escaped injury

Sorority Hears Mayor Walker

Xi Beta Upsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Mrs. Del Gann with 14 members present.

Mrs. John Gardner was crowned Valentine Queen and presented with a gift from the members.

Plans and preparations were made for decorations to be used at the combined sororities Founders Day celebration April 27 at the Old Missouri Homestead. A cocktail party will be held from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. followed by dancing to the music of Dickie Phillips.

The social committee discussed arrangements for an Italian dinner which will be held March 30 at the home of Mrs. Barney Sullivan.

Mayor Ralph Walker, guest speaker for the evening, was introduced by Mrs. Bill Arnold. Mayor Walker gave humorous situations and read letters he has encountered since his election. He also gave a resume of the Constitutional Charter Membership form of city government, which has been quite successful in other cities toward a more progressive community.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Guil Flores

SEPARATED AT SENTENCING

DENVER (AP) — A judge split up a pair of 19-year-old twin brothers with police records. He ordered one to serve on a Denver mountains parks work project and sentenced the other to the state reformator.

New 224-Page Paperback Book Holds Hundreds of Polly's Pointers

An exciting new paperback edition of a best-selling book by Polly Cramer is available through this newspaper for only 75 cents.

"Polly's Homemaking Pointers" is a 224-page, illustrated edition of the hard cover book that sold for $4.95. It is crammed with hundreds of Polly's Pointers on sewing, cleaning, decorating, entertaining and child care, along with nearly every other subject of interest to housewives of all ages.

The valuable book is a primer for modern housewives, making available the tried-and-true ideas developed and perfected by generations of mothers and grandmothers. Examples:

- When washing shirt collars, put shampoo on the grease stains. Shampoo is made to dissolve body oils and works wonders on men's shirts.
- In an emergency, a strainer or colander can be made by punching holes in aluminum foil pie pans.
- To clean a small-necked bud vase or decanter, place two tablespoons of rice in the bottle and fill with vinegar. Shake well and the inside will be cleaned and polished quickly.
- Rusty needles become sharp and smooth as new after they have been punched in and out of a cake of soap a few times.
- Remove hem creases by sponging with two parts white vinegar to one part water, then steam press.

There are hundreds more sensible suggestions such as these, all indexed for ready reference and divided into colorful chapters. The ideas have been sent in to Polly through the years she has written her very popular "Polly's Pointers" column which appears daily in this newspaper and is distributed across the country by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

For every one of the Pointers Polly uses in her column, she sends the contributor a Polly Dollar.

Polly Cramer is a mother, grandmother, experienced homemaker, professional journalist and decorator. She has appeared on radio and television many times and is a popular speaker at women's functions.

"Every day I'm more amazed at the marvelous ways women go about their everyday tasks," Polly says. "The unusual, new, different, often years-old methods handed down through the generations make my column-writing a delight. I am so happy to be able to share the fun with my readers, inject interest and the fun of a game into what could be a humdrum routine."

"Polly's Homemaking Pointers" is bound to be one of the most-used books in the household, for men and youngsters as well as the homemaker. As a matter of fact, Polly receives many letters sharing ideas from men and children and finds a special joy in presenting their down-to-earth suggestions with her readers.

Nothing Like Spring

Children at Denver's Emerson Elementary School took advantage of warm spring-like temperatures which came to the Rocky Mountain area. Children are, left to right, Chris Holle, 7, Robin Sauitt, 6, Djeddah Betcke, 7, and Taylor Betcke, 7. The temperature reached a high in the 60's. (UPI)

Unveil 'Invisible Quartet'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fledgling National Coalition for a Republican Alternative hopes to bring to the surface one of what its top organizer calls an "invisible quartet" of potential presidential candidates.

The new organization of moderate Republicans, which was formed during 48 hours last weekend, has pushed its contacts into 25 states. But it is operating without a candidate.

And it is under express orders from its chief sponsor, Sen. Thurston B. Morton. R-Ky., not to get itself tagged as an "anti" movement against former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

However, Nixon's name was not among those listed by Duff Reed, Morton's aid and chief organizer, as making up the "invisible quartet."

Reed said in an interview the group hopes to wind up with a candidate in either Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois or Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon—not necessarily in that order.

All these are noncandidates at this point, although Percy is in line to become Illinois' favorite son.

Reed said the coalition already has sufficient pledges of financial and political support to keep expanding its operations up to the time of the Republican National Convention in Miami, Fla., in August.

He said some of the politicians who back the organization's objectives of getting a candidate and a platform moderates can support will have to remain underground because they are personally involved in the choice of convention delegates.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen told an informal news conference Monday he is puzzled about the coalition's objectives. He indicated he doesn't think the group can surface a candidate, although he made it clear he doesn't think Nixon has the nomination locked up at this point.

Asked about Rockefeller, who has said he is not an active candidate but would accept a draft, Dirksen said that "breathing life into a potential candidate who started out with vigorous support of another candidate, belatedly came into the picture himself and then bowed out, presents a problem to get any steam up for him again."

But the Illinois senator, observing it's nearly five months until the convention, noted it didn't take that long for Wendell L. Willkie to come from political nowhere to win the GOP nomination in 1940.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, who had strongly urged Rockefeller to get into the race dashed cold water on the coalition's efforts.

Although saying he still believed Rockefeller was the man best qualified to be the GOP nominee, Agnew asserted Monday night that he didn't intend to support the coalition or "any organization which accentuates ideological divisions within the Republican party."

BEST USE OF POLICE FORCE

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Police Department is engaged in a two-year research project to determine the most effective use of its resources and manpower.

A grant of $150,000 was awarded by the U.S. Department of Justice, Office of Law Enforcement Assistance to carry out the project. The grant will be matched by $270,000 of department funds.

Director of the 10-man study task force is Albert M. Bottons of Arlington, Va.

The team will seek to focus on the best use of the department in crime prevention, apprehension and miscellaneous police services.

The team also will predict future department needs and possible problem areas by evaluating crime, sociological and population trends.

Miracle Drug Is Effective

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Science Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The controversial "miracle drug" DMSO is proving effective against one of the major obstacles to long-term freezing of living tissue, a research physician says.

Successful freezing revival of tissue is one of the methods being explored for setting up storage banks of hearts and other organs for transplantation.

Dr. Robert E. Stowell, a pathologist at the University of California at Davis, told a symposium of science writers Monday that DMSO, dimethylsulfoxide, prevents the formation of ice crystals that dehydrate and thus kill cells during the freezing process.

DMSO, derived from wood pulp, is a highly penetrative chemical which has been hailed as a "miracle" pain killer. It is controversial because it is not as effective in some people as in others.

Dr. Stowell told the American Cancer Society-sponsored symposium that small animals have been frozen successfully but that there is as yet no found scientific basis for believing the same thing might be done with man.

"For one thing," he said, "we do not yet know how much DMSO would be needed in freezing an animal the size of man."

Dr. Stowell said cold-protective agents such as DMSO are proving valuable in removal of frozen cancers. Freezing of the area prior to surgery, he said, minimizes damage to surrounding healthy tissue and results in less pain and bleeding.

Stylist Seeks Work In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Military officials organizing tours for entertainers were skeptical. A hairdresser coming to South Vietnam?

But Daniel Wadiaeff wanted to come from New York and do creative hairstyling for the American women in the armed forces stationed here.

Considered one of the top 10 hairdressers in the United States, he lists the former Lynda Bird Johnson, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein II, and Eileen Ford among his clients.

If the military in Vietnam were dubious, his friends in New York found the idea even more strange, he said.

Wadiaeff's reception was enthusiastic. He arrived March 18 and spent a week traveling to bases around Saigon and Cam Ranh Bay, escorted by Maj. John P. Miller, Bonita, Calif.

More than 350 women suddenly became glamorous as Wadiaeff snipped, shaped and styled. He worked in trailers, barracks, lounges and in the open under parachute canopies.

"Everybody received me beautifully. I met such marvelous people here. Ironically, I'm only a private first class in the Reserves, but in Vietnam I ranked as a colonel," he remarked.

Wadiaeff, a bachelor, is fond of sports and holds a brown belt in karate.

He saw a little action in Vietnam when Long Binh was shelled lightly and when some shooting broke out near Cam Ranh Bay.

The girls who met the stylist were delighted.

"The men here get singers, dancers and all kinds of entertainers. This is the first time someone came over specifically for the women," said Sgt. Rita Pitcock, Miami, Fla., "Many of the guys commented quite favorably on our new appearance."

Wadiaeff financed the entire trip himself. He was sponsored by the State Department, and the Saigon USO arranged his itinerary. He says he wants to come back this year with some assistants and possibly a fashion show.

The News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Washington traffic official downed three double shots of Scotch, blew into a British-made gadget to test sobriety and decided not to drive home.

George Hammond, chairman of the District of Columbia Citizens Traffic Board, drank the whisky and blew into the device Monday as part of an experiment.

Dr. Tom Parry Jones, inventor of the instrument called an Alcolyser, announced that Hammond's breath had registered above the danger mark.

Hammond, who had expressed interest in possible use of the device, announced he was going home in a taxi.

The New Leg Look Turns Groovy

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Midis and maxis may be creeping down on the fashion scene, but the miniskirt is still up there at the top.

Legwear raced into first place in every girl's wardrobe the minute skirts started inching to mini length and today the new look in hosiery is setting fashion's smartest pace.

Panty hose, with its unbroken line from waist to toe suits the abbreviated hemline best. And it comes in every pattern and color you can think of.

There's a lively, look-through acorn design shaped into a tiny bikini top.

You'll find the lacy look with eyeletlike accents to complement this season's softer silhouette. And diamond designs, the offspring of the fishnet pattern, take a new twist when shaped into tiny cut-out carats.

Color is important in spring hosiery. And solid color crepe panty hose come in soft garden pastels as well as bright hothouse shades. One new style sprouts a cluster of daisies down one leg. It's all in step with fashion's flair for fun.

You can even step out in a colorful liquidlike shimmer. The new "wet set" stockings are sheer pastel styles with a water-bright glimmer. You can wear them one pair at a time, or if you don't care how long it takes you to dress as long as the result puts you in the fashion hit parade, you can try a color-play of two or three pairs worn at once.

Even support hose has come into the fashion picture. An all-in-one style now incorporates the features of a panty girdle and support stocking. The stretch panty hose is designed in a full range of neutral shades and soft pastels.

NEW FASHIONS IN LEGWEAR take a cue from living flower power. New collections of opaque stockings and panty hose are color-cued for spring in a series of pastel and shocking-bright garden colors (left). See-through acorn design panty hose (right) stretches into a tiny bikini top, perfect for a smooth silhouette even under the most abbreviated costume. These are designs by Hanes.

Hospitals Burdened

HONG KONG (AP) — Red Chinese hospitals in the border province of Kwangsi are so packed with wounded North Vietnamese soldiers they are refusing to accept Chinese patients, a Hong Kong Chinese just back from Kangsi reported.

In Fusui, where he visited, he said a Chinese boy died after being temporarily refused entry to the Fusui hospital and a mob of angry residents attacked the hospital and staff members. He said several were hurt in the fight.

There was no way to confirm the report.

Fusui is a small city on the main rail and road route between the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi and the Kwangsi provincial capital of Nanning.

"Every day," the Long Kong construction worker said, "several trains go through Fusui loaded with weapons and supplies for the North Vietnamese army.

"They come back with wounded North Vietnamese. Every hospital in Kwangsi Province is filled with wounded North Vietnamese.

"At first, the people (of Kwangsi) seemed to approve it as part of China's policy of helping North Vietnam in the war against America.

"But when the hospitals started turning back Chinese residents of their own areas, there was opposition and bitterness and eventually attacks against hospital authorities and staff."

Astronomers say the sun is a rather average star.

Favorite Cake and Party For His 108th Birthday

This is the seventh consecutive year that the Newcomers Club has held the birthday observance. When Mrs. Sam Ferguson, Welcome Wagon Hostess, visited the Home in 1961 she found that Greene had no known relatives and she decided to do something about making his birthdays happy.

Helping with the party were Mrs. David Mills, Mrs. Frank Palmer, Mrs. Robert Hadley, Mrs. Jack Hurst, Mrs. Earl Breese and Mrs. Edith Steele. Mrs. Odes Campbell baked Greene's favorite chocolate cake and Mrs. A. R. Mason, Jr., provided cup cakes for the other nursing home patients.

Greene shared the occasion with his roommate, Gene Dawes, who was 87 years old last Friday.

He was born in Cortland County, New York, in 1860, and went West with his brother following the Civil War. He helped in building railroads and worked as a cowboy until he reached Arizona. He remembers experiences of the early days of the settling of the West and relates them with ease. His hearing is poor, but his eyesight is good and he gets about in his room and insists on doing all that he can for himself.

When asked the standard question hoe he had lived so long, he replied, "Its because the dear Lord isn't quite ready for me yet."

Charley Greene of Windsor observed his 108th birthday anniversary March 24. The Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club honored the occasion with a birthday party Sunday afternoon at the Windsor Nursing Home where he has been since 1961.

Greene had no trouble in opening some small gifts and blowing out the candles on his cake. He remarked that "So many candles sure made lots of heat."

Teacher Groups Locked in Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rash of teacher walkouts sweeping the United States reflects a rivalry between the two principal teacher associations for members and influence.

Locked in the competition are the once conservative National Education Association, with 1.1 million members, and the aggressive AFL-CIO American Federation of Teachers, with a membership of 150,000.

For the NEA, founded in 1857, militancy became respectable last summer only after its leaders glanced over their shoulders and found AFT membership growing.

Last July, NEA, which had frowned on teacher walkouts, announced it would support affiliates that carried out work stoppages.

"We will not encourage strikes," NEA Executive Secretary Sam Lambert said then, "but if one occurs after all good faith efforts fail, we will not walk out on our local groups."

Since then, NEA has backed walkouts by teacher affiliates in Pike County, Ky., Scranton, Pa., Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Michigan, Bay County, Fla., Paducah, Ky., Albuquerque, N.M., Montgomery County, Md., and recently, in Florida, where teachers pulled their first statewide strike.

AFT, founded in 1916, has made major gains in large cities, winning bargaining rights for teachers in New York City, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland and Gary, Ind.

AFT also handed NEA an embarrassing setback in its own backyard by winning a representational election held by teachers in Washington, D.C. It backed the recent strike in Pittsburgh, and a long, bitter one in New York.

The AFT-NEA rivalry was spotlighted March 4 when AFT President Charles Cogen suddenly announced plans to propose that the organizations merge.

"There is no use denying that the AFT and the NEA are engaged in dire competition for the membership of the teachers of America," Cogen said, "but it's very unhealthy for the teacher force to be divided—both for the teachers and for the children."

Cogen insisted that NEA ally itself with the AFL-CIO as a precondition to merger, but NEA has traditionally resisted affiliation with any group.

Said NEA President Braulio Alonso: "Since teachers instruct children from all walks of life, they must not be aligned with any segment of society. They cannot afford to be tied to any one group, whether it's a labor union or the Chamber of Commerce. Independence is too important."

NEA hopes to eventually see one organization speaking for all teachers, said Alonso, "but it has to be independent."

At this moment chances for a merger appear practically nonexistent.

The battle between AFT and NEA has centered largely on major cities over the past year but the rivalry is beginning to shift to suburban areas. NEA clearly showed it realized it was fighting for its life in the recent teachers walkout in Montgomery County, wealthy residential area in Maryland adjacent to Washington, D.C.

Mindful of a militant AFT organizing campaign in Montgomery County, NEA took the unusual step of dispatching from its Washington headquarters a high-ranking official to oversee the walkout.

Gary Watts, a veteran of teacher-school board disputes elsewhere, took over field management of the walkout, and shortly found himself cited for contempt for violating a court injunction to halt the strike. The teachers, after six days, won a new base pay of $6,340 compared to the old $5,880 and Watts was given a three-day suspended jail sentence.

The Montgomery County episode amply illustrated NEA's willingness to match the militancy shown last year by the AFT's New York City affiliate, the United Federation of Teachers, which led a 17-day strike that crippled the city's 1.1-million pupil school system.

In New York, the AFT won a new pact providing a teacher pay scale of $6,750 to $13,750 compared to $5,400 to $11,950 under its old contract.

Alonso predicts there will be 300 new teacher walkouts in the United States this year.

"This is not just a question of teacher militancy," he said. "It demonstrates the desire on the part of teachers to win recognition as contributing members of society entitled to a fair and sensible pay scale."

The NEA-AFT rivalry reflects new militancy among the teachers themselves. An Associated Press survey disclosed that more teachers than ever before are men with families and most hold or are working for masters degrees.

"I believe today's teacher is dedicated," said an Arlington, Va., high school biology teacher who flew a B47 bomber in the Korean War. "But you can't raise and provide for a family on dedication."

There is no doubt that teacher salaries are at the root cause of the militancy. But there are other issues.

Better school facilities, a greater voice for teachers in curriculum selection, and relief from nonteaching chores, are other major goals.

Hue Begins Job of Rebuilding

By RICHARD MERRON
Associated Press Photographer

HUE, Vietnam (AP) — Gradually Hue is striving to bring itself back from the ravages of the lunar new year fighting. It is going to be a long process.

Everywhere in this city 380 miles northeast of Saigon there still are signs of the Vietnam war's longest sustained battle —25 days of fighting that wracked the city in February. There are destroyed, burned-out buildings, and marks of shells and bullets in the old capital's walls and battlements.

Little by little the people are trying to restore life to what once was considered South Vietnam's most beautiful city.

Most of the work so far is being done by the people themselves and is centered on their own property—homes, shops or places of business. They have cleared much of the rubble left from the fighting and they are patching up buildings and trying to return a semblance of physical order.

Student volunteers from Saigon University and other schools have come to Hue to help with the job of rebuilding.

The official task of reconstruction still is moving slowly, however. One American noted that the Tua Thien province chief who had authority over Hue was fired and that other administrative officials are no longer in their posts—either removed missing, wounded or killed.

The same thing is true on the American side with an almost complete changeover in personnel since the offensive.

"We got 14 brand-new people here," said one U.S. official, "and many of them don't even know where province headquarters is yet."

This official also noted the possibility of another enemy attack still is "very much on peoples' minds and Westy's press conference didn't help."

He referred to a recent news conference statement by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, who said he thought Hue might be the next target of a new enemy offensive.

The U.S. Military Assistant Command (MACV) compound here is back to normal with only the marks of bullets and shells to denote recent fighting. The movie schedule at the compound this week included the TV film "Combat." A goose that fled into the MACV compound during the fighting has been adopted as an official mascot.

The main bridge spanning the Perfume River between the new and old sections of Hue was blown up during the fighting but now is usable for limited traffic as a result of a 100-foot pontoon link put in by U.S. Marines.

Traffic across the bridge is single file and during the busy hours hundreds of people wait to make the crossing. Somehow they make it, pushing bicycles, motorbikes and handcarts up the 45 degree incline to reach one side or the other.

Women wash clothes from the edge of the structure. Occasionally a Vietnamese man will jump into the water and wash the clothes he is wearing and himself at the same time.

"The people are just living from day to day," said one American official," but they are living. I suppose it's the natural resiliency of the Vietnamese people."

Sen. Ryan Is Speaker At Meeting

Sen. John Ryan was the speaker at the Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, meeting held recently at the Bothwell Hotel.

The senator, speaking on "Our Great State of Missouri," traced the history of Missouri beginning with early Indian settlements, and pointed out that Missouri means "people of the big canoes" in Indian language.

He went on to describe early French influence in the state and the increasing frontier settlements that led to Missouri being named the "mother of the West." Senator Ryan also traced the history of the state Capitol, ending with its final establishment in Jefferson City.

Senator Ryan spoke briefly of his first six months in the State Senate and the committees on which he served — Agriculture, Correctional Institutes, Election, Municipal Corporations, Yorkman's Compensation, Ways and Means, State Parks, Local Government, State Government and Labor.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Herbert Mason, program chairman.

Miss Lillian V. Thomson, regent, presided over the meeting with Mrs. Del Heckart at the piano as accompanist for the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the group.

Miss Jessie Browneller led in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, the State of Missouri and the American's Creed. Miss Thomson gave the Daughters of the American Revolution Ritual and Mrs. William T. Sims, chaplain, offered prayer.

An impressive memorial service for Mrs. Virginia Gorrell Jones was conducted by Mrs. Perry L. Strole. Mrs. Jones, wife of H. Clay Jones, was a member of Osage Chapter, DAR, for over 50 years.

The National Defense Message was given by Mrs. H. E. Lindstrom and Mrs. Vernon Cordry read an article by the National President General, Mrs. William H. Sullivan, Jr., titled: "From the President General's Desk."

A dessert luncheon preceded the meeting.

Ms. Sarah Martin of Plympton, England, wrote the nursery rhyme about Old Mother Hubbard in 1804.

Something New on Stage

First presentation of the Sedalia Council on the Arts will be offered Friday at Smith-Cotton Auditorium. The Council will present the Missouri Vanguard Theatre that evening in their version of "The Glass Menagerie," by Tennessee Williams.

Judging from the Kansas City reviews, the play should be well staged and acted. But even if it were something less than a smashing success, the Sedalia Council on the Arts would still deserve support and patronage for what it is attempting to do for the community.

The Sedalia Arts Council was created, for the same reason as other local councils throughout Missouri — to bring professional artistic attractions to the smaller towns of the state, towns that otherwise would have little opportunity to procure high-calibre attractions. This is made possible through partial support of such events through the Missouri State Council on the Arts.

This is something new, and worthwhile. Sedalia has shown in the past that it has an appetite for culture, and this is just one more way to obtain fine entertainers and exhibits for our citizens.

In addition to the Friday night performance, the Missouri Vanguard Theatre will present an afternoon program at Smith-Cotton for students. The actors will present cuttings from historical plays and other dramatic passages in addition to demonstrating staging and make-up techniques. This will be vastly entertaining as well as educational for students, many of whom may not have another opportunity to see professional actors on stage.

Future presentations of the Sedalia Arts Council will cover other artistic media, such as music and painting. The scope of selection is widening all the time, and most persons will find something to appeal to their individual tastes.

Although the Sedalia Council is partially subsidized by the state, the local unit must meet its part of the cost. As civic-minded citizens, Sedalians could do nothing better to demonstrate their interest in improving our city's cultural climate — and see a good show in the bargain — than be at Smith-Cotton Auditorium this Friday night.

Jerry Ford Irks Some Republicans

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Rep. Jerry Ford's knuckling under to the real estate lobby regarding civil rights has brought some strong opposition from fellow Republicans on Capitol Hill.

This was revealed at the closed-door Republican "caucus" on the civil rights bill last week.

"There's an election coming this year," said Rep. William McCulloch of Ohio, one of the bipartisan architects of the first civil rights bill. "The Republican party should be out in front on civil rights. We should as a party endorse whatever steps are necessary to expedite House action on the Senate bill.

"We've been through this many times before," McCulloch insisted, "but a decision must always be made in the end. So why delay at this time? Let the House act on the Senate bill immediately."

He was backed up by young Bob Taft, Jr., of Ohio, son of a famous father, together with Clark MacGregor of Minnesota, Donald Rumsfeld of Illinois, and several others.

What Ford had done was to give the signal to the five Republican members of the Rules Committee to vote in a bloc with Dixiecrat Rep. Bill Colmer of Mississippi, chairman of the Rules Committee, to stall any House action on the Senate-passed civil rights bill.

This, first of all, gave the real estate lobby time to deluge congressmen with mail threatening them with defeat unless they voted against the bill. Second, the delay probably meant that the House would pass a separate bill, not adopt the Senate version. A separate bill would mean a joint Senate-House conference to iron out the differences, and the new bill would then go back to the Senate for a long, drawn-out filibuster, almost certainly burying civil rights for this year.

Officially, Ford maintained he was for civil rights; but behind the scenes he had given his blessing to this delay tactic.

"I certainly do not favor sending the bill to a joint conference, despite the action of the Rules Committee," said McCulloch in the closed-door Republican meeting. "This is exactly what Southern Democratic opponents want."

Young Taft of Ohio took on Rep. H. Allen Smith, the real estate operator from Southern California who, as a member of the Rules Committee, voted to stall action.

"Isn't there a chance of another Senate filibuster if we go through with the joint conference procedure?" inquired Taft.

"Yes," replied Smith, "but that isn't certain. Even if it does happen, there are still enough votes in the Senate to invoke cloture again."

"I am not at all sure that we ought to take that chance," replied Taft. "I'm not sure that I agree with the leadership that we are moving in the right direction," he said, referring to Ford and Melvin Laird of Wisconsin.

Taft didn't know that the man he was arguing with, Rep. Smith, was one of the most eager-beaver real estate operators in the Los Angeles area, who had once used his privileged position as a member of the Rules Committee to try to wangle a real estate project from the Irvine Foundation, which owns 11 miles of choice land along the Pacific Coast.

The House Ethics Committee, under Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., has just brought in a fairly forthright code of ethics for House members. However, it contains no clear-cut ban on a congressmen's use of his law firm to wangle deals with the government.

Note — Rep. Ford has taken a position directly contrary to the biggest business leaders in his state. The four automobile manufacturers in Michigan — General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, and American Motors — all favor the passage of the civil rights bill, including open housing, as a means of helping improve the black ghettos and staving off race riots this summer.

HOUSTON CHRONICLE: Untapped Resource. — Almost every lad who has belonged to the Boy Scouts is the better for it. It is a fine organization which teaches and promotes the finer ideals in life.

Recently the scouts have recognized that they have an untapped resource and an unexploited opportunity to advance their program of clean living and wholesome recreation by expanding into the slums. The Inner-City-Rural program is designed to attack poverty, prejudice, delinquency, language and cultural barriers, social instability, school failures and dropouts.

In a New York City neighborhood a program has been devised for Puerto Rican boys. In Miami, for Cubans. In Los Angeles, for Mexican-Americans. And in Watts, 18 per cent of the eligible boys have signed up.

The scouts can do something to brighten these boys' lives, in addition to exposing them to the scout oath and law. A further goal is getting them to "do a good turn daily," something many of them probably have scarcely heard of.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"Should Sedalia Have a Teen Age Club?" was the subject of an interesting discussion at a meeting of Smith-Cotton's Parent Teacher Association. After many of the parents had expressed themselves, some for and some against the project a vote was taken. The tally showed 80 for and 23 against. A location for teen club under consideration is the store room on the northwest corner of Sixth street and Ohio avenue. Cost of operation the first year was estimated at $2,400. An initial fund of $150 was raised at the meeting.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Miss Lucille Brown of LaMonte was hostess to the Methodist Epworth League and a number of friends. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Malcomb Scott, Virginia Wheeler, Nadine Fisher, Mildred Kirby, Kathryn Stirlen, Dovis DeJarnette, Virginia Stirlen, Mary Siron, Emmett Painter, Virgil Breshears, Claire Files, Gregory Staples, George Hesler, Lester Beatty, Lorenzo Bolton, Spencer Elliott, Rome VanNatta, Clifford Wheeler, and Leonard DeJarnett.

NINETY YEARS AGO

Sedalia is so located that it becomes a point of refuge for at least one-half of the discharged penitentiary convicts. By law of the State, ex-convicts are required to leave Jefferson City iwthin a given time, and they generally have money enough to get to Sedalia where they set their wits to work to raise a "stake." There is but little doubt that this class of persons are responsible for many of the crimes committed here. Inside of two hours after a pair of convicts reached Sedalia Tuesday, they had their cards out and were throwing three-trick monte and offering to bet on the game. After fleecing a couple of Sedalians they were arrested and placed in the clink.

Letter to Editor

M. L. COX (204 East Morgan) — All too often a person may see something and not know the true value of what they have seen. If they do not know the value, they soon discard it from their mind, and start looking for something else that suits their fancy, which may have no value at all.

In The Sedalia Democrat of Friday, March 22, 1968, is an article under the heading of "PASTOR'S COMMENT," written by Rev. Walter F. Strickert, Pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

I cannot help but wonder how many read that article without weighing the value of it. American gold has a value of $35.00 per ounce. If the words of Rev. Strickert's article were compared to the price of gold, they would be found to be worth a mountain of gold. My reason for saying so is because after a person dies, all the gold in this world is of no value to that person. But what Rev. Strickert had to say, if a person would follow his advice and accept the Son of God, the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour now while they have that chance, the only chance they will ever have, then when they die and leave this world and everything in it, they will go to a city of pure gold and valuable gems, as described in the 21 chapter of The Revelation.

The church the pastor was referring to is neither the Lutheran, Methodist, Baptist, Catholic, Church Of Christ or any denomination. The church he was referring to is made of members who have accepted the Lord Jesus as their Saviour. All others are excluded, no matter if their name is recorded in some church ledger, and they are looked up to as being a good church worker and give substantial offerings.

Sirs, I think it would be of great interest to republish Rev. Strickert's article. It would give those who read it the first time another chance to re-evaluate what he had to say.

At Heart of Gold Crisis

U.S. Loses Competitive Edge

By RAY CROMLEY, NEA Washington Correspondent

BANGKOK (NEA)

Spot checks in several Middle East cities, travel in Pakistan, Laos and Thailand and talks with Indians, Japanese and trade representatives from the half dozen other countries operating in this part of the world make it clear the dollar problem is much more than a run on gold.

The fact is the United States is being undersold on the world markets because U.S. products are too high in price, because foreign companies and their salesmen are more adaptable in what they will give in meeting customer requirements and because in many cases U.S. products are far too sophisticated, considering the local level of economic development and education.

If one reads the statistics, U.S. exports are doing quite well. We export more than we import. But when one adds in foreign aid, the cost of the Vietnam war and other military commitments and other foreign exchange "invisibles," then it is clear the United States must either cut back its role in the world considerably, export a great deal more or lower the standard of living of its people.

The remedies the U.S. government has so far proposed are not enough.

Talks with U.S. businessmen with wide experience abroad make it clear that if we are to maintain our high wages and living standards, U.S. industry must automate and computerize operations at a rate much greater and on a wider scale than in the past.

Certain sections of American business have revolutionized their business practices in the past few years. Much of U.S. industry has computerized operations at a much more rapid rate than in Britain or Europe. But that's not the point. So long as the U.S. government carries a much heavier aid-military burden than our competitors and maintains a higher standard of living, we must make up for these costs by an extensive overhaul of our industry.

The new equipment is available, in production or on the drawing boards, which could revolutionize operations and cut costs sharply in wide sections of American manufacturing and commerce.

Electronic computers are now available to operate the machinery, adjust the output to orders, compute the amount of stocks needed, reorder supplies, survey the future markets, keep books and payrolls and perform many of the routine management decisions in wide areas of American industry now operating partially or wholly by precomputer methods.

Management as well as blue collar costs could be cut sharply. The production of waste or faulty materials, which must be scrapped and thus add to costs, could be cut dramatically. A wider variety of products would be possible. The widening of markets should prevent an increase in unemployment.

For the most part, the computer concepts are not just laboratory ideas. Many companies are using some of these concepts already. Some companies have adopted almost all of the newer techniques which have so far proven out. Some firms, in fact, have overcomputerized before they knew what they were doing, and have lost efficiency in the process.

But a sizable section of U.S. industry has not advanced at the rate necessary to compete successfully with foreign firms in wide areas of the world.

One example will illustrate the point. A Japanese manufacturer this reporter knows well said he had been offered a chance to buy a large U.S. textile firm at an attractive price. But he found the efficiency of operations so low he didn't consider the investment worth-while.

Tax advantages are granted for modernization. Perhaps these should be increased. Perhaps other incentives are needed. But something must be done. The run on gold is not the basic problem; the ability to compete is at the root of our current crisis.

Lent and All Star Line-up.

By DAVID POLING

They paid Donny Anderson $600,000 to carry the ball for Green Bay. And they handed Joe Namath $400,000 to throw it for the Jets in Shea Stadium. Americans have been willing and able to pay big money for those who can inspire, thrill and entertain.

Professional football has a following that is almost religious. The game has developed a ritualistic procedure of its own, with millions of fans finding their destinv and fulfillment in the success and accomplishments of the home team.

Jesus cared about the crowd. However, he saw them as individuals, not as a mob or horde or "fans." Should today's Christian be at home with the sports kingdom? Yes, but he dare not let it become a false idol to worship or serve.

What has really given professional sports some tone of sanity and integrity is the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. People like Bart Starr, Fran Tarkenton and Bobby Richardson have communicated Christian ideals to young men faced with exotic temptations. Everywhere are the allurements of big-time money, pretty girls and gambling syndicates. If Lent is spring training for Christians, then it happens in the locker room prayers as well as the Good Friday services of Holy Week.

Today we are umpires in a dispute between North and South. Playing at four spades, South had to follow while West cashed his ace and king of clubs. West shifted to a spade and South was in but he had no way to collect 10 tricks. He had lost two clubs, and now proceeded to give up a heart trick. Later on this allowed him to discard a diamond on dummy's fourth heart, but he still had to concede the setting trick to the ace of diamonds.

North felt that South's four spade call was bad. He pointed out that with 16 high card points he had shown admirable restraint in not going right to four spades himself, and for proof of his brilliance North pointed out that South did make three spades.

South felt that he would have been an abject coward if he hadn't gone on to game after North's three spade bid.

We have had trouble deciding. South was right and North was wrong. South had nine high card points, five pretty good trumps, both red kings and a doubleton club. He would have been a coward if he had stopped short of game after North bid three.

North was correct about one thing. He did have 16 high card points. What North overlooked was that he could take those three points represented by the queen and jack of clubs and give them away. They weren't worth anything to him!

A good bidder knows that point count is generally accurate, but he also knows that cards, not points, take tricks. North could see that the queen and jack of clubs had no trick value at all.

That is, he could have seen —if he had done anything but add points. West had bid a club and East had raised him. They surely held both ace and king of clubs for their bids, and that queen and jack were just so much waste paper.

7 SCHOOL DISTRICTS TO FACE COMPLAINTS

The Missouri Commission on Human Rights will initiate complaints against seven school districts where there is information that the state Fair Employment Practices Act and the Public Accommodations Act are being violated through different treatment on the basis of race.

The districts include: Charleston R-1 in Mississippi County; New Madrid R-6 in New Madrid County; Lilbourn R-4 in New Madrid County; South Pemiscot R-5 and Hayti R-2 in Pemiscot County; Sikeston R-6 in Scott County, and Poplar Bluff R-1 in Butler County.

The commission also announced that it is investigating a complaint against the Fulton schools which was filed by the Fulton Chapter of the NAACP.

The 11-member commission noted recently that a number of Missouri schools are segregated in terms of pupils and teachers. While they thought that segregation in some schools might be the result of residential patterns, in other districts the existing segregation appears to be the result of former segregation by law, the members said.

Complaints in the near future not only will be initiated against school districts which appear to be violating state law, but the commission also plans to examine school desegregation in St. Louis and other larger cities.

This study will include the relationship between school segregation and residential segregation.

LEGISLATORS MAY FACE ANOTHER SPECIAL SESSION

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes may call another special session later this spring to complete the unfinished business on capital improvements after the last special session failed to pass the $34 million proposed capital budget.

Although the governor said that the state could live for a year without the capital appropriations, it would seriously delay building programs for the Division of Mental Diseases and for higher education.

A session called too soon after the recent one would not allow enough time for supporters of mental health and higher education to talk with senators and representatives about the needs in these areas, a source close to the governor said last week.

Dr. George D. Ulett, director of the Division of Mental Diseases, noted that a one-year delay in one of the division's most essential programs — the treatment of mentally disturbed children — could block the momentum started in preparation for this area of treatment and discourage those with whom the division had been negotiating from coming to Missouri to work in this field.

Dr. Ulett described the treatment of emotionally disturbed children as the greatest growing problem in mental health today.

But the special session of the Legislature, in defeating the budget for capital improvements, also struck out money for a new juvenile mental treatment center for Fulton which would have cost about $4.8 million.

The first step in a state-wide program to treat these children, Dr. Ulett said, would be the construction of the Fulton treatment facility. Other facilities are being planned for St. Louis, St. Joseph, Farmington and Nevada.

The principle reason for choosing Fulton as the site for the first juvenile treatment center was to provide a close relationship with the University of Missouri at Columbia, where the need is great for training teachers in special education and child psychology.

At the present time, Dr. Ulett said that facilities were not available in the state for giving teacher and child psychology trainees the experience needed in working with emotionally disturbed children on a large scale, as would be available at the proposed juvenile treatment center.

Hyperinsulinism--- A Puzzling Condition

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Having received several questions about hypoglycemia or hyperinsulinism, I will try to clarify some features of this puzzling condition. Its chief characteristic is an abnormally low blood sugar level (the normal fasting level is 60 to 100). Hypoglycemia is not a single disease as several different types are recognized. In the commonest form, a person whose nervous system is high-strung secretes an over-abundance of insulin two to four hours after a meal that is high in sugars and starches.

These persons must follow a diet that is low in carbohydrates. They will get plenty of sugars and starches in foods that are rich in protein. The fats in their diet will supply the needed energy.

Although hypoglycemia is the opposite of diabetes, which is characterized by an insulin deficiency, a few persons with mild diabetes produce an over-abundance of insulin when their blood sugar level reaches the diabetic level (over 120). This rebound reaction pulls the blood sugar level below normal and causes the symptoms of hypoglycemia—sweating, weakness, trembling, anxiety, hunger and nausea. Hypoglycemia also occurs from time to time in diabetics who get an overdose of insulin.

Another type of hypoglycemia is caused by a tumor of the pancreas in which the amount of functioning insulin-producing tissue is increased. When such a tumor is recognized, it should be removed because, even though it is benign, it may become cancerous in time.

Still another, though rarer, cause is a hereditary condition in which the liver fails to store glycogen (a sugar reserve). This is observed chiefly in infants and children. Hyperinsulinism may also result from taking large amounts of alcohol on an empty stomach, insecticide poisoning, large doses of sulfa and other drugs. Glucagon injections are useful in the treatment of some victims. Injections of the long-acting zinc glucagon mentioned in earlier columns are still experimental.

Thus it can be seen that, although all of the diseases resulting in a low blood sugar may produce the same symptoms, all cannot be expected to respond to the same treatment.

War Major Campaign Issue

NEW YORK (AP) — The war in Vietnam is the major issue in the presidential campaigning. Four of the major candidates for the nomination of their respective parties have spoken out at length on various aspects of the war.

Here is what President Johnson and Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene McCarthy, Democrats, and Richard M. Nixon, Republican, have said:

ON MILITARY VICTORY

Johnson—"No one hates war and killing more than I do ... but we have also had to face the hard reality that only military power can bar aggression and make a political solution possible." Washington, Sept. 28, 1967.

Kennedy—"It is time to face the reality that a military victory is not in sight, and that it probably will never come." Chicago, Feb. 8, 1968.

McCarthy—"I think the administration plans a complete military victory. Then negotiate the terms of surrender." Portland State College, Feb. 2, 1968.

Nixon—" ... Not a military victory in the conventional sense, not unconditional surrender by the other side, but durable peace in which the right of self-determination of the South Vietnamese people is respected by all nations, including North Vietnam." Radio Broadcast, March 7, 1968.

ON BOMBING NORTH VIETNAM

Johnson—"Until the enemy is willing to go to the peace table and is willing to say if you stop bombing he will probably come and talk, and that we can have productive discussions, and that he will not take advantage of our restraint to put extra pressure on during that period, then I think that we would be endangering the lives of our men, and some men don't have that responsibility." Film prepared for AFL-CIO meeting, Feb. 2, 1968.

Kennedy—"The fact of the matter is that bombing of the North can be stopped as a step toward peace without effectively weakening our position in the South." Senate speech, March 2, 1967.

McCarthy—Resumption of the bombing "has not yet proved itself to be the advantageous course of action it was supposed to be." CBS television interview, May 1, 1966.

Nixon—"To halt the bombing would only prolong the war." "... The proposal to halt the bombing and talk simply have the effect of encouraging the enemy." Fund-raising dinner, Washington, March 1, 1967.

ON U.S. WITHDRAWAL

Johnson—"We keep our commitments. Our people are going to support the men who are there. The men are going to bring us an honorable peace." In response to a question he said Hanoi will make "a serious misjudgment" if it believes some other President would pull out and make "an inside deal." News conference, Washington, Nov. 17, 1967.

Kennedy—"Withdrawal is now impossible. The overwhelming fact of American intervention has created its own reality ..." From his recent book, "To Seek a Newer World."

McCarthy—"There is never a totally painless way to pull back from either unwise, ill-advised or outdated ideas of commitments. But through history, might nations have learned the limits of power." From his book "The Limits of Power."

Nixon—"Not now. It would start a chain reaction." Statement to a woman at a reception, Manchester, N.H., Feb. 3, 1968. In numerous speeches, Nixon has said: "We must not end the war in such a way as to constitute a reward for Communist aggression."

ON NEGOTIATED SETTLEMENT

Johnson—"I want to negotiate. I want a political solution. But I can't just negotiate by myself. Maybe somehow, some way, sometime, maybe somebody will be willing to sit down at the table and talk instead of fight, reason instead of kill, and when they do I will be the first one at that table, wherever it is." Talk to American Physical Society, April 26, 1967.

Kennedy—"A negotiated settlement must be less than a victory for either side. Both sides must come to any discussion with one basic condition, one irreducible demand, one point they will not yield." Stated in "To Seek A Newer World."

McCarthy—"We haven't pressed to the point of getting clear rejections. And we have been denying reality in refusing to acknowledge the presence of the Viet Cong—a force that we'll have to deal with in any preliminary negotiations leading to a settlement of the war." News conference, Minneapolis, Feb. 26, 1966.

Nixon—"Where the Communists are concerned, as we learned in Korea, when we talk they fight. We must never forget that after truce talks started in Korea there were 18,000 American deaths, more than died before the truce talks began. We must never let that happen in Vietnam ... all this talk that we must prove we are for peace. Look, if they were for peace they wouldn't have started the war." Chicago Tribune interview, Feb. 18, 1968.

"But he must remain answerable for his decision both to society and to God."

Medical research continues to bring new means of prolonging life. But where, ultimately, might this take the human race?

Sir George Pickering, prominent medical researcher of Oxford University, England, is one who has wondered publicly about this.

If, he said, human beings continue to reproduce themselves and medical science continues to prolong life expectation at about the present rates, "the surface of the earth will be completely occupied by human beings within a few thousand years. More and more of them will be senile" because of the apparent impossibility of ever transplanting human brains."

Medical research involves a variety of ethical and moral issues.

In experimenting with new vaccines or drugs, is it right to give them first to retarded children in institutions, or to prisoners who might volunteer in hopes of earlier release? Should experimenters first try unknown drugs upon themselves — after animal testing — to help answer questions of safety?

The U.S. Public Health Service in a policy statement has set terms for assurances, in projects supported by the service, on providing group review and decision, watching over the human rights involved, to monitor that patients are not being subjected to unjustifiable hazards, and to obtain their "informed consent."

The essence of medical ethics is the Golden Rule, says Dr. DeBakey, the Houston pioneer in much heart surgery.

"Tyrannical restraints on experimentation would have precluded" the past contributions from countless scientists, he says, and "imaginative experimentation is indispenseable to the progress of medicine."

New steps involve risk, and so do incompetent application of old techniques, Dr. DeBakey says, and the only way to eliminate risk entirely would be "to abandon all medical practice and research. The result would be unimpeded suffering, rampant illness, and premature death."

The medical investigator "must find the critical balance required to satisfy society's demand for the advancement of knowledge, while abiding by its strictures to protect the dignity, privacy and freedom of its individual members."

No one knows exactly where the cornerstones of the White House, Capitol, Treasury and Washington Monument are.

Science Fair Scheduled

The Math and Science Divisions, Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg, is sponsoring the ninth annual Central Missouri Science Fair, April 19-20, on the college campus. The deadline for entering the Science Fair is April 5.

Affiliated with the International Science Fair, the regional science contest is open to students in elementary, junior, and senior high schools from 21 counties in Missouri. Divided into six dividions, the students may choose to enter in either the biological or physical science area.

The student having the highest rating in the senior division will receive an all-expense paid trip to the International Science Fair in Detroit, Mich., May 15-18.

In addition to first and second place ribbons for each division, the awards will include two Central Missouri State College Regents Scholarships to two outstanding seniors, the U. S. Navy Science Cruiser Award; a 20-volume World Book Encyclopedia set; a Lincoln Library Award; the Inland Chemical Company Globe Award; National Aeronautics and Space Administration Awards; and various science books.

For more information concerning the Science Fair, write Dr. Charles O. Hinerman, Department of Science Education, CMSC, Warrensburg, Mo. 64093.

To Survey Attitude Toward US

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's National Research Council has been commissioned to carry out a survey to find out what Thais think of Americans.

The government-sponsored survey follows several recent outbursts of anti-Americanism, brought about by the buildup of American troops in Thailand. They now number some 45,000.

Thais, normally an urbane, polite people who rarely say what they think, have begun to be more outspoken about the Americans.

The first thing that shocks them is that many Thai girls turn to prostitution as a way of earning an easy living from the free-spending Americans.

In the town of Tahkli it is estimated there are 1,000 prostitutes registered with an American doctor and probably 1,000 more who are not registered. This is about 10 per cent of the town's population.

The figure for all Thailand, including the towns that have sprung up around the six big airbases used to bomb North Vietnam and Laos, may run to 70,000.

The troops and the girls have led to the problem of illegitimate children fathered by American servicemen. This is not a major social problem, but the Thais have expressed concern about the welfare of the GI babies and their mothers.

Thais are both fascinated and repulsed by Americans.

They envy them their post exchange, tax-free cars and modern household gadgets which most Thais will never be able to afford. This leads to wholesale thieving from American homes in Bangkok.

Liquor and cigarettes brought in for tax-free sales to U.S. personnel are stolen in huge quantities.

Thais are repulsed by Americans kissing and cuddling girls in public, and newspapers frequently condemn the practice.

Pretty Assistants

Everett Sawyer, chief horticulturist for the National Park Service, gets an assist from two Cherry Blossom Princesses as he checks the condition of the buds on the famed trees in Washington. Sawyer predicted the trees would be in full bloom for the annual Cherry Blossom Festival which opens April 2. The Princesses are Toni Aluisi of Maryland, center, and Greer Hemphill, District of Columbia, right. (UPI)

May Finish Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Engineers report they expect to finish an analysis of the needs and resources of 10 Missouri River Basin States for the next 50 years by the middle of 1969.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said the survey will evaluate water and related land resources, and will present a general plan for approaches to solving the area's problems.

One-Crop Economy Threatens Island

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

PORT LOUIS, Mauritius (AP) — Newly independent Mauritius faces a future only slightly brighter than that of the dodo bird which became extinct here 250 years ago.

The island in the middle of the Indian Ocean is overpopulated and depends entirely on sugar cane. It suffers sleazy politics, bitter racial and religious feuds, resentful satellite islands and seems likely to become a minor pawn in international power politics.

The Soviet Union is reported interested in this island 1,500 miles off Africa for space satellite tracking. The United States bases an astronaut recovery team in Port Louis during manned space shots. Satellites launched from Cape Kennedy reach orbit over the Indian Ocean.

With Britain's planned withdrawal east of Suez, the Soviets may also be interested in Mauritius as a base for warships or a fishing fleet.

The island's 25,000 Chinese are split between supporters of Nationalist China and Peking. Two daily newspapers back mainland China and one supports Formosa.

"My government thinks the mainland of China is China," Prime Minister Sir Seewoosagur Ramgoolam told newsmen who asked why Peking was invited to attend the Mauritian independence ceremonies despite offers from Formosa to help the island grow more rice.

Britain studied and then dropped plans for a British-American naval base on Diego Garcia Island, a Mauritian dependency 1,000 miles north.

London and Port Louis signed a six-year mutual defense pact which permits British warships and planes to use Mauritius. Under the agreement Britain on request will provide troops to quell unrest in Mauritius.

About 140 members of the Singapore-based King's Shropshire Light Infantry are helping local forces maintain order under a state of emergency in effect more than two months. At least 30 are known dead and scores are missing. A favorite weapon is a makeshift broadax fashioned from saw blades fastened to wooden clubs.

Immediate cause of the violence was fighting between rival gangs connected with prostitution racketeering.

Underlying this is long-standing mutual distrust between the island's 215,000 Creoles, who are of white, African, Indian, Chinese, Madagascan and Malay blood, and the 127,370 Moslems who are mostly from Pakistan.

Besides the Chinese, Creoles and Moslems there are about 10,000 whites and 400,000 Hindus. The population of nearly 800,000 is packed into 720 square miles—smaller than Rhode Island. This gives Mauritius a density of more than 1,000 to the square mile.

Half the main island is cultivated and 90 per cent of that is planted to sugar. Whites control the estates. Hindus labor in the cane fields or their own small plots. The Chinese are mostly shopkeepers. Moslems are traders or factory hands and Creoles are found in all these areas.

Creoles unable to find work have been migrating to South Africa and Australia. About 2,500 left for Australia in the past two years and a number sailed out of Port Louis the day after independence.

Unemployment is estimated at about 20 per cent.

With its polyglot population and one-crop economy, Mauritius needs strong leadership to make progress. But islanders are bitterly divided along racial and religious lines and politicking is preferred to meeting problems head on.

Ramgoolam, 67, leads a three-party coalition which has a 16-seat majority in the 70-member Parliament. His "democratic Socialist state" provides numerous welfare benefits. Among them is a birth control program, and families receive 15 rupees or $2.76 each month if they have three or more children. Critics say this encourages families to grow.

Mauritians never voted directly to become independent, and it is possible the majority would have rejected it in a referendum. The island ended 178 years as a British crown colony after Ramgoolam's coalition won a general election and then pushed a motion through Parliament requesting independence.

Assembly To Elect President

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak National Assembly will meet Saturday to elect a president to replace Antonin Novotny, the old guard veteran who stepped down last Friday after months of pressure from new liberal leaders.

Informed sources said the election date was fixed today at a meeting of the parliament's presidium. The sources said they did not know how many candidates would be in contention.

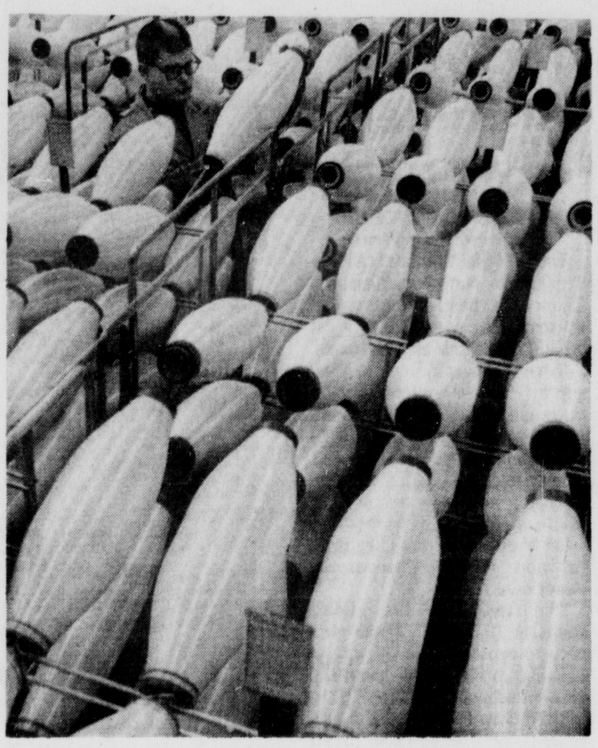
Frontrunners, however, include Josef Smrkovsky, 56, forestry minister and the most prominent survivor of the bloody Stalinist purges, and Gen. Ludvik Svoboda, 73, one-time commander of Czechoslovak forces in the Soviet Union in World War II.

The election will be held in the medieval Vladyslav Hall in Prague's Hradcany Castle complex overlooking the Vltava River. It will come two days after the new leadership under party chief Alexander Dubcek presents the party's central committee with a program outlining sweeping legal and administrative changes in line with the democratization process already under way.

On Monday scores of old-line Communists quit party and government posts, and moves were reported under way toward improving church-state relations. Bishop Frantisek Tomasek, acting head of the nation's five million Roman Catholics, has indicated support for the Dubcek government and called on it to restore full religious freedom.

There were also more demands for a full end to censorship, and legislation was being prepared to exonerate victims of Stalinist purges.

The Inter-American Geodetic Survey, a subordinate command of the United States Armed Forces Southern Command, represents the joint efforts of 17 Latin American nations and the United States. It was formed in 1946 after World War II revealed the distressing lack of accurate maps.



Lots of Yarn

Spools of polyester tire yarn are inspected by a worker at Goodyear's cord production facility near Point Pleasant, W. Va. Each spool, called a "pirn," weighs about ten pounds and holds up to 18 miles of polyester yarn—enough for the reinforcing plies of six passenger car tires. (UPI)

Kovacs Is Back On Television

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The offbeat but on-the-nose comedy of the late Ernie Kovacs can once again be seen by television audiences, thanks to vigilance for his legacy by his widow, Edie Adams.

A special called "The Comedy of Ernie Kovacs" has been scheduled for April 9 by ABC, and it will refresh the memories of those who recall the Hungarian zany as one of the most original creators of TV humor.

When Kovacs died in an auto crash six years ago, he left his affairs in disarray. He had been a prodigious spender and an inveterate borrower, and although his income had been high, so were his debts. His famous pals realized this and they gathered together to plan a television special to help ease the widow's burden.

"Thanks, but I'll manage," said Miss Adams, and she embarked on a strenuous work schedule that eventually relieved the estate of its indebtedness. One of the first things she did was to buy back tapes of shows Ernie had done for ABC.

"Right after Ernie died, I discovered that he owed a lot of money to the network," she recalls. "He had owned the tapes, but he owed ABC so much money that they could have used the shows to discharge the obligations. I didn't want those shows to be run on the network at 9 a.m. or something. So I settled with ABC and took possession of the tapes."

"I put them away and then last year I started looking at them. I realized how new they were! Ernie was doing things that are now the rage in underground movies, psychedelic movies, and even some of the commercial films.

"The Beattles movies were full of the sort of things that Ernie did. And now you see a lot of his kind of humor on television.

"'Laugh-in,' for example. After the first show, the producer, George Schlatter, called me up and explained how they hoped to capture some of Ernie's flavor. 'We all loved Ernie,' he told me. And of course Dan Rowan and Dick Martin were among Ernie's good friends.

"But it's not only the techniques that make Ernie's work seem contemporary. He always had a very young attitude and was constantly hitting the establishment. He had the firm belief that the world was too serious, and he aimed to do something about it."

Miss Adams spent much time in putting together the hour-long show, which was drawn from eight half-hour specials that Kovacs performed, plus two years' supply of his half-hour series. To complete the job, she hired Ernie's producer, Milt Hoffman and his tape editor, Deck Wilson.

Surprise!

An early spring snow storm that dumped up to six inches of new (and needed) snow on Vermont ski areas took skiers —especially Miss Mary Lou Basler from Cape Cod—by surprise. Mary Lou, on a week's holiday at Mount Snow in southern Vermont, didn't let a little snow bother her spring skiing. Mary Lou's companion on the chairlift is unknown. (UPI)
